SENATE G. O. P. KEEPS UP WAR ON COALITION

Democrat-Insurgent Group Faces Another Tariff Vote Test Today

BACKS TO WALL

Coalition Seeks To Keep Rates on Window Glass Down

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—Victorious in upsetting the coalition of Democrats and Republican independents on the sugar and cement tariffs, senate Republicans put their opponents to another test today with a move to retain existing levies on window glass.

The coalition several weeks ago succeeded in reducing to the level of the 1922 law the window glass rates proclaimed by President Hoover last year. Senator Goff, Republican of West Virginia, at the outset today proposed the restoration of the higher levels. The issue first was decided by only one vote and the coalition was striving earnestly to maintain a majority.

Time Is Real Test

Time only will tell whether the coalition, which has been so successful all through the tariff fight in knocking out house increases in industrial levies, has been permanently broken. Bowing to majorities which put over increases in the sugar levy and a rate of six cents a hundred pounds on cement, now on the free list, its leaders have moved reconsideration of both of these votes.

These new roll calls are expected next week. Meanwhile, the coalition will use every strategy at its command to regain the strength it displayed when it defeated the sugar increase and kept cement free.

Before Goff's proposal was taken up today, the senate approved an increase in the duty on decorated earthenware and crocker ware from 50 to 55 per cent ad valorem. This was in line with the action of last night increasing the duty of 45 per cent on plain earthenware by adding a rate of 10 cents a dozen pieces.

Arguing for restoration of existing window glass duties, Goff said increasing importations and unemployment in the Pittsburgh and West Virginia factories should be sufficient argument to upset the prior acting in cutting the rates.

JAIL INDIAN WOMEN IN BUFFALO SLAYING

Ouija Board, Superstition Used To Incite Killing, Police Say

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 8—Two Indian women were in jail today charged with murder after police said one had confessed she used a ouija board and tribal superstition to incite her aged accomplice to kill Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, noted artist.

The unrequited love of Miss Lillian Jimerson, 39-year-old Seneca Indian, for Henri Marchand, distinguished nature artist, of the Buffalo Museum of Science, and husband of the victim, police said was the motive for the killing. Miss Jimerson had worked as a model for Marchand.

Mrs. Marchand's body was found Thursday. She had been beaten on the head and strangled.

Arrested yesterday, Lillian, or Lilac, as she was known to her tribesmen, implicated Mrs. Nancy Bowen, 66, and told how she worked upon the old squaw's superstitious belief in witchcraft and black magic to bring about the killing.

The old squaw was unable to read the letters on the Ouija board and Miss Jimerson formed them into sentences and translated into the Indian tongue what purported to be messages from "Charley," saying he had been killed by black magic and was wandering hungry and distraught in the spirit world waiting to be avenged.

After several sessions with the ouija board, Miss Jimerson told Mrs. Bowen that the message spelled out was, "Go to 576 Riley street. It's a little house in the rear. It's a little woman. She is short. Her hair is black with gray. It is bobbed. She has some teeth out—upper teeth. She has a police dog."

Letters purporting to have been written by a medium were sent by Miss Jimerson to the older woman, the confession said, hinting that Miss Jimerson and other members of the tribe were in danger from the white woman.

Finally Mrs. Bowen agreed to kill Mrs. Marchand, police said Miss Jimerson told them.

H. M. Wheeler Builds 16-Tube Radio Set That Gets Nearly Everywhere

Gardner Tap & Die Co. Head Makes Wireless Tinkering His Hobby

H. M. WHEELER

RAPIDLY changing styles and innovations in the radio game hold little terror for at least one Marionite. As a matter of fact he usually has both several months before they are seen commercially, and invents some new wrinkles of his own in between time.

This man is H. M. Wheeler, 130 Clover av., who is everything a radio fan stands for. Four years ago Mr. Wheeler wouldn't even listen to a radio with good grace. Now he is the owner of probably the highest powered set in the city, which he built almost entirely by himself.

Mr. Wheeler does things in a big way, so it was no more than natural that he should build a 16 tube radio set as a toy. By eliminating this and adding that, Mr. Wheeler found he could spare three of the tubes without missing them, and now operates his mammoth set on 13 tubes.

Set Gets London Direct: Station on Every Point of Dial

Stations Everywhere

To explain all the gadgets and home made transformers, and odds and ends which have gone into the set would mean little or nothing to the average radio owner. But to start up the dial and bring in a station at every "notch" or every 10 kilocycles is something that will drop the jaw of the greenest amateur.

That's just exactly what this high powered set will do. Everything from A to Z, for there isn't a broadcast channel from which he can't pull one or more stations. Needless to say, with 13 tubes in action, the set does not want for volume.

Most sets which pull in stations from all corners of the world, also bring noises from the same corners, but an hour's time

CONTEST OVER ESTATE SEEN

Question of Whether Erlanger Left a Widow Subject of Dispute

BROTHER SAYS NO

Property of Theatrical Magnate Valued at Millions

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8—Litigation over the millions of Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, czar of the theater, was forecast today by contradictory statements as to whether he left a widow.

Erlanger, in his seventieth year, died yesterday at his apartment on Riverside Drive. The superintendent of the apartment building told reporters: "Mrs. Erlanger has issued instructions she is not to be disturbed by reporters or anybody else."

"There is no Mrs. Erlanger," said Abraham's brother, Mitchell L. Erlanger, retired justice of the state supreme court. "There is no widow. What I am telling you is 100 per cent the truth."

Steuer Retained

Max D. Steuer announced he had been retained as attorney for Mrs. Erlanger, in whose arms Abraham L. Erlanger died in the Riverside Drive apartment.

Informed of Mitchell Erlanger's statement, Steuer said: "Every department store in New York has charge accounts in tthe name of Mrs. Erlanger with the Riverside Drive address."

He added that hotel records in New York and Atlantic city and transportatiton arrangements made by Erlanger's confidential employes also would make it easy to prove there was a Mrs. Erlanger. He estimated Erlanger's estate at $75,000,000.

Tells of Divorce

Mitchell Erlanger said that his brother had been divorced from Mrs. Adelaide Louise Erlanger, Dec. 23, 1911. The marriage was July 5, 1891.

Steuer said that Erlanger met the present Mrs. Erlanger 26 years ago. She was formerly Charlotte Fiscal.

From the Riverside Drive apartment Erlanger's body was taken to his brother's home on East Seventieth st. to await the funeral tomorrow. There will be services in Temple Emanuel on Fifth av.

Condition of Taft Not So Favorable

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 8—For the first time this week, the physicians reported former Chief Justice William Howard Taft's condition not so favorable today.

The midday bulletin, signed by Drs. Hagner and Claytor, said: "The former chief justice has had a less restful night and his condition is not quite as favorable as yesterday."

Skunks Enjoy Tear Gas As Though It Were Perfume

By The Associated Press

EAST DETROIT, Mich., March 8—Skunks think gas from a tear bomb is perfume.

A lonely pole cat made its home under the house of Mrs. A. C. Geiger here. Police were called to evict the white-streaked tenant and several gas bombs were exploded under the dwelling.

Yesterday Mrs. Geiger reported that two skunks lived under her house.

Patrolman John Hanson used four tear gas shells but the skunks refused to move.

Gets Another New Start

Prisoner Pardoned by Governor Returns To Resume Work on Home

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, March 8—Andrew Jones, father of a destitute family, was at liberty today to go back to the task of finishing the little home he started at West Jefferson for his wife and six children.

Ten years ago when he was a contractor in Stark county, Jones succumbed to temptation to steal.

He was sentenced to the penitentiary. The duties of a trusty provided him with an opportunity to escape. He took the chance and for 10 years he got away with it.

* * *

WHEN a state officer recognized him at West Jefferson, last Christmas, he found Jones had tried to live down the past. His family had increased to six youngsters and he was building them a home with money he had saved.

But the law takes its course and Jones went back to the pen.

Poverty overtook his family and the unfinished home became barren in its exposure to the weather. Then appeals drifted in to the board of clemency and finally to Governor Cooper.

And executive clemency rewarded Jones for trying to square himself with society. The governor granted him a pardon.

WOMAN BURNED AS KEROSENE EXPLODES

Mrs. Grace Randolph in Serious Condition at Home in Ashley

Special To The Star

ASHLEY, March 8 — The lower part of her body being badly burned when a can of kerosene exploded, Mrs. Grace Randolph, 30, mother of three children, is in a serious condition at her home here today.

All of Mrs. Randolph's clothing was burned from her body. Mrs. Carl Whipple, aged mother of Mrs. Randolph, extinguished the flames with rugs and blankets.

While pouring kerosene on a fire, the contents of the can became ignited. An explosion followed blowing the bottom out of the can. The flaming fluid dropped on Mrs. Randolph's feet and legs setting her clothing afire. The home was not damaged.

She is expected to recover.

BUSES CRASH

Score Injured In Accident in Illinois: Cars Burn After Collision

By the Associated Press

KIRKWOOD, Ill., March 8—A score of passengers were injured, one perhaps fatally and seven others severely, when two buses carrying players and fans back to Galesburg from a basketball tournament at Burlington, Ia., crashed and burned near here early today.

When the leading bus failed to make a turn one mile south of here and careened wildly, the trailing conveyance crashed into it. The gasoline tank of the latter was broken and the fuel burst into flames. The fire spread quickly and many of the 43 occupants of both buses were burned before they could get out. Others suffered broken limbs, cuts and bruises.

William Tucker, of Galesburg, with severe burns and other injuries, is in a critical condition in a Monmouth hospital.

SEES SIGNS OF BUSINESS RISE

Worst Effects of Stock Market Crash Near End, President Says

STUDIES SITUATION

Next Two Months Expected To Bring Marked Employment Improvement

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—A thorough study of the present economic situation has convinced President Hoover that within the next two months the most serious effect of last fall's stock market crash will be passed with unemployment conditions definitely on the mend.

To the increased out-of-doors construction work that comes each year as the weather grows warmer and to the expanded building programs of the railroads, public utilities and private industries the chief executive looks to bring about this result.

Issues Statement

Mr. Hoover's views were summarized in a statement, issued to Washington newspapermen late yesterday, based on a statistical study made by interested departments and consultation with business organization set up by the president as a part of his program for economic stabilization. At the same time, a joint statement by the heads of the commerce and labor departments was made public.

"All the evidences indicate," the chief executive said, "that the worst effects of the (stock market) crash upon employment will have been passed during the next 60 days with the amelioraiton of seasonal unemployment, the gaining strength of other forces, and the continued cooperation of the many agencies actively cooperating with the government to restore business and to relieve distress."

Unemployment, he said, is serious in but 12 states and hardly more than seasonal in the remaining 36. He added that the low points of business and employment were passed in December and that a gradual improvement had been noted since that time.

The chief executive predicted that with wage rates maintained, low in-

Detroit Officer Slain in Battle with Bandits

By the Associated Press

DETROIT, March 8—Patrolman Dayton A. Winegar was shot to death this morning in a gun battle on St. Aubin av. with two robbers who fled with $6,000 obtained in a haberdashery holdup.

Patrolman Winegar was pursuing the robbers in a commandeered automobile. The two men held up the haberdashery, which is on Joseph Campau av., 15 minutes earlier, driving away in their automobile.

Winegar was in front of the store when the two men ran out and leaped in a waiting automobile. The officer commandeered a car driven by S. D. Slippe and gave chase. In front of the St. Aubin st. address he ordered the car stopped and he leaped out an started shooting. The robbers returned the fire and he fell.

FINALLY GIVES TALK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 8—Miss Rose Clark, the young woman from New York who was arrested during the unemployment demonstration here Thursday when she attempted to make a speech, finally succeeded last night in delivering her massage on communism to a local audience. Seventy-five persons gathered in a South High st. auditorium to hear her. Police were on hand but they did not intervene.

POLICE RAID "BOMB TRUST" NEAR CHICAGO

11 Men Captured, Explosives and Guns Found at Farm Hangout

GANGSTERS IN CROWD

"Trust" Accused of Supplying Bombs for Recent Chicago Attacks

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 8—Eleven men were arrested and two bombs, four shotguns and several pistols seized in a raid early today on a farm near Melrose park which police said was headquarters for a "bomb trust."

The farmhouse was surrounded by two squads of detectives. Automobile headlights were turned on the building from all sides and the occupants ordered to surrender. Several men tried to escape by climbing out of windows but were covered by officers' guns and captured.

Most of the men arrested were found to be former members of the once-powerful Genna gang that ruled the West Side several years ago. The two principal captives were Tony Caliendo, owner of the farm, and Tony Giannini, described by police as the lieutenant of Melrose Park's alcohol chief, Joe Montana.

Get Undercover Tip

The raid was the result of a tip from undercover men of the state's attorney's office that a general meeting of the bomb trust was to be held at midnight at the lonely farm southwest of Chicago.

The raiders said they had positive information that the gang had supplied a number of bombs that have shaken Chicago recently. Two powerful dynamite bombs, wrapped and apparently ready for delivery, were found in a secret cupboard in the kitchen.

The raiding party was led by Joseph Allemeier, bomb expert of the state's attorney's office, who said the prisoners had reorganized the bomb trust that was crushed by a sensational raid a year ago.

Among those arrested in addition to Giannini and Caliendo were the latter's son, Peter; Joe Jackson; Sam Scotti, Anthony Curle; Guy Facchiaro, and John and Sam Nuzzo, brothers.

Scene of Gunfight

The farmhouse where the raid occurred was the scene of a famous gun fight in June, 1928, when Charles (Limpy) Cleaver, convicted mail robber, was captured. He had used the farm as a hideout.

Scotti, police said, formerly lived in Ohio and was arrested there in 1918 and 1920 and fined for disorderly conduct. He was first arrested, they said, in Canton, as John Mora, and later in Youngstown, where he was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail.

POLICE SEEK WOMAN IN DOCTOR'S DEATH

Continue Search for Slayer of Prominent Cleveland Physician

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 8—A woman who had an appointment with Dr. Alfred P. Scully, prominent family physician who was shot and killed in his office last Monday night, was sought by detectives today.

A friend of the slain physician's revealed that he had heard the appointment made over the telephone and disclosed the woman's name.

Investigators also attached significance to the report of a street car conductor that a greatly agitated woman stumbled aboard his car outside Dr. Scully's office a few minutes after the time the slaying is believed to have occurred.

Ohio River Has Rapid Rise Near Pomeroy

By the Associated Press

POMEROY, O., March 8—The Ohio river rose three and a half feet last night as a result of the rain yesterday but no flood danger was seen in this district. Creeks have been flowing full for the past 24 hours.

ATHENS, O., March 8—Highways in the vicinity of Athens were inundated early today when backwaters of the Hocking river and Sunday creek overflowed their banks.

The Hocking was but one foot under flood state this morning after a rise of nine feet during the night. Heavy rainfall yesterday and a snowstorm today caused the river to continue its rise.

Oliver Wendell Holmes Only Slightly Handicaped by Weight of Years

MANY SEND GREETINGS

Has Been in Supreme Court Since 1902, Oldest Member in Its History

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 8—Only slightly bowed under the weight of his 89 years, Oliver Wendell Holmes, associate justice of the supreme court, today received congratulations on his birthday, with a smile that was youthful in its spontaniety and his firm, quick step made no concession to age.

It was, so far as his own arrangements were concerned, only another day to be spent in attending to pleasant duties. He had arranged to gather with his colleagues in the familiar quarters of the conference room. The rest of the day was to be spent quietly. Mrs. Holmes died only a few months ago and anniversaries now do not call for celebration.

Many Messages

While Justice Holmes attached no particular significance to the day it did not go unnoticed by hundreds of friends and admirers all over the country. The stream of telegrams and letters and telephone calls began early in the morning and continued steadily through the day.

Justice Holmes today finished 27 years and three months on the supreme bench. He was appointed by

BABE RUTH SIGNS 2-YEAR CONTRACT

Capitulates to Offer of $80,000 a Year After Long Holdout

By International News Service

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 8—Babe Ruth, the home run hitter of the New York Yankees, today signed a two-year contract with the club at $80,000 a season, by many thousands the highest salary every paid any man connected with baseball.

Ruth, a steadfast holdout for a number of weeks, suddenly capitulated this afternoon after threatening overnight to turn in his uniform and retire from the squad until his terms were met. These terms first demanded a three-year contract at $85,000 a season but yesterday the Babe moderated his figures to the extent that he asked only for a two-year contract at the original sum.

Today he quiely signed in the presence of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the ball club and the assembled newspapermen, the contract representing a bit of give and take by both parties.

Ruppert previously had offered him $75,000 on a two-year basis, only to alter his proposal yesterday to $80,000 for two years, with the alternative of $85,000 for one year. For the last three years, Ruth has operated on a contract calling for $70,000 a season.

TAKEN ILL AT DENTAL OFFICE IN WASHINGTON

Complications from Tooth Extraction Fatal to Associate Justice

APPOINTEE OF HARDING

News of Death Comes as Shock to Nation's Capital

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 8—Associate Justice Edward Terry Sanford of the supreme court died suddenly at his home here early this afternoon.

His death was announced by Frank K. Green, marshal of the court.

Justice Sanford was 64 years old and was appointed to the supreme bench by President Harding on Jan. 24, 1923, the senate confirming his appointment five days later. He took his seat on the following Feb. 19.

Death followed complications resulting from extraction of a tooth this morning. He was taken seriously ill at the office of a dentist and was removed to his home.

Justice Sanford had gone to his dentist's office this morning for the extraction of a tooth. The operation caused excessive bleeding, and he was removed to his home, where he expired later at 12:30 o'clock.

Probable Cause

Dr. J. Lawn Thompson, who was immediately called, stated later that he believed death was due primarily to a condition of uremic poisoning which he suffered about Christmas time, and to the shock of the dental operation.

Justice Sanford had stopped off at his dentist's enroute to the supreme court where he was to have participated in the usual Saturday conference of the justices. He was apparently in good health. When he became ill after the extraction, all thought of his continuing on to the court was abandoned and he returned to his home after spending an hour resting in the dentist's office.

News of the jurist's death was a stunning shock to the other justices. It reached them while the conference was in progress and after they had just congratulated Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the senior justice, on his 89th birthday.

Justice Sanford has been in excellent health and completed the hearing of a week of arguments on the bench yesterday afternoon.

The death of Justice Sanford ended a long judicial career. He was federal judge of the eastern and middle district of Tennessee when appointed to the supreme court.

Native of Tennessee

Born in Knoxville, Tenn., July 23, 1865, graduated from the University of Tennessee, Harvard college and Harvard Law school.

News of his death shocked his hosts of friends in the capital. It came shortly after his former superior on the bench, William Howard Taft, was reported to have had an unfavorable night.

GOVERNMENT JOINS PROBE OF EPIDEMIC

Federal Authorities Help Combat Malady; 300 Are Stricken

By the Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 8—Federal authorities today joined city officials in efforts to combat a mysterious malady, accompanied by paralysis symptoms, which has stricken approximately 300 persons, none fatally so far, in Oklahoma City, after Dr. Walter H. Miles, city health director, said he attributed the strange illness to poison liquor or jamaica ginger.

T. Benjamin, of the United States Food and Drug Service, announced a federal ban had been placed on shipments of jamaica ginger from Kansas City and St. Louis warehouses to Oklahoma City and Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, said a federal drive against its sale started last November, would be redoubled.

Dr. Miles said approximately 300 cases of the paralysis had been reported to this office. After investigation of many cases, he said he was convinced "poison liquor was responsible" for most, if not all of the cases.

Two girls of high school age were among those stricken. Most of the victims were men, however, among whom were two physicians, a preacher, five drug store employes and chiropodist. The chiripodist said he had treated several of the victims when their feet became paralyzed and attributed his own condition to contagion. The minister and a number of others denied they had drunk liquor.

All physicians who encountered the malady said they never before had heard of anything resembling it. Partial or complete paralysis of the legs seemed to be the predominant symptom.

MAY EXTEND LIMITS OF BUSINESS ZONE

C. F. Lusch Asks Permission To Build Station in Restricted District

The first step looking toward the possible establishment of a "super service" filling station on North Main st. by Charles F. Lusch was taken last night when the city planning commission, in the first meeting of the year, recommended that city council extend the commercial zone of the city north on Main st. between Farming and Mark sts.

The east and west boundaries of the property proposed for the transfer are the first alleys east and west of Main st.

City council Monday night will consider and probably act on the recommendation of the planning commission.

Lusch said this morning that his plans called for a "one stop" service station just north of Farming st. on Main st. The properties involved in the proposed establishment of the station are being handled by Dwyer & Kirts, local real estate brokers.

COURSE ENDS

Machinery Overhauled During School for Waldo Farmers

The Farm Machinery short course closed at the Waldo High school last night, with 21 men present. S. R. Bear, of Columbus, has been instructor of the class, which has included 10 sessions with an average attendance of 16.

During the course, five mowers, one corn planter and one corn binder were completely overhauled.

Part of each session was given to lectures by the instructor and part to laboratory work. Other topics dealt with were care and adjustment of plows, both power and horse drawn, binder head troubles, grain drills and other farm machinery that the course members were interested in.

The last meeting was closed with a supper at Plotner's restaurant.

Marian Isaly Elected President of Guild

Miss Marian Isaly was elected president of the Anna F. Raffensperger circle of Westminster guild, at a meeting last night at First Presbyterian church. Miss Hazel Foster was elected vice president, Miss Miriam Walker, secretary, and Miss Roma Bader, treasurer. Mrs. S. E. Barlow presented the circle with a gift of silver.

Those taking part on a program were Misses Gertrude Welch, Miriam Walker and Roma Bader. Refreshments were served by four hostesses, Misses Imogene Lott, Mary Ellen Slusser, Martha Davidson and Lena Bell Wise.

The next meeting will be held April 4 at the church.

COLUMBUS, O., March 8—Broad and High—often called the second busiest street intersection in the country—was crowded. Hundreds were milling about the corners, walking back and forth across the street in tune with the traffic light and the mounted policemen's whistles.

Suddenly the blaring brass of a band was heard. Two thousand heads turned and 2,000 necks were craned at the same instant.

"Here they come! Here they come! The Communists are coming!"

And they were. Marching down High st.—the band tootin' away. The boys stepping high, wide and fancy. Grinning from ear to ear, and in the lead of them, 250 strong, was Urban Thompson.

Mistaken Identity

But, they didn't happen to be Communists. They were the boys of the Cuyahoga delegation to the Ohio League of Republican clubs.

The Communist yells got a laugh from those in the know, but there were a lot more who actually thought Cleveland's unemployed were sending down a delegation to the Broad and High gathering.

That was the funniest part of the capital's Communist demonstration Thursday noon.

At 12 o'clock the intersection of Broad and High was filled to overflowing—but nearly all of the crowd was composed of men and youths who drifted to the scene in hope of seeing something exciting.

OBSERVERS here saw the straight and narrow path of Prohibition laid down for the Republican party in the address Thursday night of United States Senator Guy D. Goff of West Virginia.

The West Virginian, who received his higher education in Ohio institutions, came out for the eighteenth amendment and committed both himself and his party to seeing that the Volstead law was kept unmodified.

If one didn't know the words, Goff and golf might sound alike.

Apparently they did to four citizens from Adams county Thursday who had a tentative appointment Thursday morning with Gov. Myers Y. Cooper.

The governor was out, the visitors were told when they entered the executive offices. Where? they inquired. They were advised that the governor was out with Senator Goff of West Virginia.

They left in a huff, one of them declaring that here they had come all the way to Columbus to see the governor and he was out playing golf.

THE average person doesn't realize what it means to care for the more than 4,000 prisoners in Ohio penitentiary. An estimate of the amount of meat needed for the inmates of the prison for the next three months was given Warden Thomas this week. The cost of operating the prison is said to be about $2,000 a day. The meat the warden found he would need included:

Steer beef, 150,000 pounds; bacon, 25,000 pounds; pork sausage, 24,000 pounds; bologna, 6,000 pounds; frankfurters, 18,000 pounds; pickled pork, 15,000 pounds; hams, 12,000 pounds; beef hearts, 6,000 pounds; beef liver, 10,000 pounds; liver sausage, 8,000 pounds; corned beef, 9,000 pounds; butter, 6,600 pounds; lard, 15,000 pounds; pigs feet, 80 barrels; pork loin, 16,000 pounds; minced ham, 6,000 pounds.

WITH all the talk of harmony that pervaded the Republican powwow here Thursday night, it was jolting to hear the sentiments of the latest Democratic candidate for governor.

Stephen M. Young, Cleveland attorney and his party's nominee for attorney general back in 1922, threw his hat into the ring this week, declaring that his platform comprised planks standing for preservation of civil liberties, elimination of spies and informers from the public payroll, caution in the enactment of tax legislation, abolition of grade crossings, and solution by the state of unemployment problems.

Young's choicest statement, however, called for "more belligerency and less harmony" in his party.

40 INCOME RETURNS FILED ON FIRST DAY

Tax Collector from Federal Department To Be Here Until Saturday

Forty returns were filed with M. C. Grant, income tax collector, during his first day's stay in Marion yesterday. Grant is located in the law library at the court house.

Grant predicted a rush of filing of returns for next week, the last before the final date of filing, which is Saturday, March 15 at midnight.

Another member of the internal revenue department will be here from Columbus on Monday to assist Grant.

Returns must be filed by all citizens having a net income for the calendar year 1929 of $1,500 or over, if single, or of $3,500 or over, if married and living with husband or wife Grant said today.

Office hours next week will be from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily, with the exception of Saturday, when the office will be open until midnight.

Hearing in Strange Court Case Continued

By International News Service

AKRON, March 8—Hearing in the strange court case here, involving a $10,000 estate of two victims of the Cleveland clinic disaster and the parentage of a two-year-old boy, was continued today by Common Pleas Judge L. S. Pardee until Monday.

The boy, coldly termed as "exhibit A" in the court proceedings, is either Carl Long, Jr., heir to the $10,000 estate, or is Richard Lee Rush, penniless, the son of Miss Lorella Rush, 20, of Barberton.

Witnesses testified yesterday that Mrs. Carl Long, who with her husband was a victim of the clinic disaster in Cleveland, was an expectant mother immediately before the child was born. Miss Rush, however, strongly maintains that the two-year-old, golden-haired lad, is her own and that she had given him to Mrs. Long the day after he was born.

Mrs. Long, according to the charges of Miss Rush, deceived her husband into believing that the child was hers.

Cooperative Marketing Developments Discussed

E. C. Rector Speaks to Marion County Organization at Meet Here; Manager Reports Increase in Business for Preceding Year

E. C. Rector, of The National [illegible], Columbus, was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Marion County Livestock Cooperative association here last night.

Mr. Rector reviewed the general trend of livestock marketing situation over the country as a whole, placing particular emphasis on the change in the methods of distribution and the development of cooperative marketing. The [illegible] quartet of the Osgood Co. furnished entertainment for the occasion. About 100 persons attended the meeting.

In reviewing the operations and accomplishments of the Marion County Livestock Cooperative association during the past year Leland Sour, manager of the organization reported a substantial increase in business over the preceding year.

Citing the fact that conditions of marketing here changed during the past few years from the point where the farmer's market was limited in many cases to local merchants because of transportation facilities to the place where all concentration points are open to his business, Sours claims the local association has kept pace with the trend by adding to their service that of livestock trucking. To bring out the value of this service, he said that the total value of such trucking amounted to $27,750.61 for a period of three months.

The organization also placed 707 feeder cattle and calves and 191 feeder sheep among the farmers of the county. The volume of business done in the county during the year amounted to $209,541.91.

Another change made by the bureau is the establishment of districts for the concentration of market bound stock for the purpose of grading in order to meet the demands of the packers for graded consignments.

HARDING CAGERS DEFEATED BY NORTH

MARION CAGE QUINT LOSES HARD BATTLE

Local Team Leads Throughout First Half; Wilts in Second To Lose, 33 to 21

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

COLUMBUS North High cagers flashed a fast offense during the second half to eliminate the Harding five in the opening round of the central district tournament in Delaware last night. The local team played on better than even terms throughout the entire first half but their defense cracked badly in the early part of the second to allow the Polar Bears to run up a lead which could not be overcome.

North took the tipoff from Bush to start the game only to miss an attempt at the basket. Harding took the ball from the backboard and the ball from the backboard and passed up the oor Merkel completing the play with a goal from the side of the court to give Harding a two point lead. North came through with a free throw immediately afterward on Klingel's foul, Stark making the throw. North was shooting long shots from all angles of the floor whenever the opportunity arose. Their shooting eye was off though and their shots for the most part went wild. They were visibly bothered by the unexpected opposition of the Marion team. Marion missed a short sucker shot when the pivot play failed to function. Castner fouled Gunnell on the play, the colored boy shooting the foul to tie the score 2 to 2. Merkel dribbled in for Marion to score a sucker shot to put his team in the lead 4 to 2. Bush followed with another underbasket to make the score 6 to 2. Gunnell fouled Bush on the shot, the Marion man making good on one of the two throws. The quarter ended with the score 7 to 2 in favor of Marion.

Second Quarter

Howells tossed in a long one from mid-floor to bring the North total to 4. North missed another long shot but Klingel fouled Hunt on the play. The Columbus forward missed the free throw leaving the count at 7 to 4. Marion failed to hit the net in two under basket attempts. McClain went into the game for Hunt at forward for North. North took time out. Merkel fouled Gunnell who immediately dropped in one point to bring the score to 7 to 5. Marion's offense then clicked again a well executed passing attack taking the ball close under the net from where Bush scored two points. Score Marion 9, North 5. Hagans, elongated North center promptly dribbled in close to count a sucker shot and bring the score to 9-7. Castner fouled Hagans who added a point to make the count 9-8. Harding took time out. After the time out Gunnell attempted a mid court shot but his aim was poor and the try dropped short. Castner again fouled Hagans who added one more free throw to his list to knot the count at 9 all. Hagans was putting on a great demonstration of foul shooting although he had failed to live up to advance notices on his floor work. From this point on the tide swung distinctly towards the Bears. North threw the ball to Howells from out of bounds who then dropped in a fielder to give his team the lead which it was never to relinquish. McClain followed with another goal to make the score 13 to 9 as the first half ended.

Third Quarter

North took possession of the ball at the outset passing it all over the floor in their attempt to add to the score. Gunnell finally dropped one through to put North ahead by 6 points. Howells came through with another two pointer to make it 17 to 9 for North. The Harding defense then tightened for a short time and the ball went up and down the floor with first one team and then the other in control. Marion failed to add in an attempted long range try. Klingel came in fast to score a side shot and make the score 17 to 11. After passing around in an attempt to break through the Marion defense which they were unable to do, Gunnell again looped through a long one and made the North total 19. Marion took time out. Coach Compton immediately substituted his second string lineup of Morgan, Howison, Smith and Clay. Klingel remained in the frame. Clay tossed in a mid floor shot just after going in to boost the Marion score 13. Gunnell fouled Howison who added one to make it 14. On an out of bounds play Stark of North scored. Although he had two extra free throws on a personal by Smith he failed to make either of them. Clay fouled McClain who also missed both his tries. Gunnell committed a personal on Morgan who made the score, Marion 15, North 21. The third period ended as Hagans dropped in a charity throw on a foul by Smith.

Fourth Quarter

Marion's first team lineup again entered the fray. Hagans made a brilliant dribble the entire length of the floor only to miss his try for a basket. Marion missed two tries and then tried another one which also failed to connect. North then let go from the center court and Hagans coming in fast, took it off the blackboard to make the score 21 to 15. McClain then scored another underbasket try to add two more points. Marion again missed in an attempt to score. Hunt came into the game to take the place of Stark who received a big hand as he left the floor. Howells fouled Klingel but the charity did not gain anything for Harding. Marion took time out. Hagan fouled Klingel who again missed. Castner completed a beautiful dribble to score two for Marion. North missed a sucker shot and McClain fouled Bush who made one point for Harding. Merkel fouled Gunnell who made good on his try. Marion ran in four new men when there were but a few minutes to go. Howison fouled Hagans who added a point to make it 30 to 19. Morgan missed on an attempted free throw. Gunnell dropped in another short one to bring North's total to 32. He was fouled on the play and added another point on the two throws. Howison completed the scoring by bring the total for Marion to 21.

Kauffman Throws Wilson in High Class Mat Card

AMATEUR NOTES

TOURNAMENT play at the last two games was not up to the usual standard of Class A teams. Both Mt. Vernon and Lancaster played loose ball throughout their game. Unless Mt. Vernon steps out of [illegible] their game with Central today it looks like the Pirates will be a step nearer the title when the hostilities are over.

* * *

When Becker tangles with the North High outfit tonight the Polar Bears are going to experience difficulty in stopping some of the suburban star. Becker has been going like a house afire all year and it is not likely that he will blow up in his big chance.

* * *

South High has it all over the Newark team on form and pre-season record. Although beaten by North once and Central twice in the city league the South team has two clever players in Kolb and Milner and their passing attack has been most deceptive.

* * *

The West versus Aquinas game should not cause any one to get overly excited. Neither has done anything all year but it is probable that Aquinas will come out on top in tonight's fray.

* * *

One of the bright features of the North-Harding game was the effective stopping of Hagans, famed Bear center. Hagans has been the nemesis of opposing teams all through the past cage season. He placed second high in Columbus city league scoring.

In place of Hagans starring, all the laurels for the evening so far as North was concerned can be given to Gunnell, colored background. That boy was all over the floor and it is not unlikely that North would have have had more trouble beating Harding had he not been there to break up so many Marion plays. He was also high scorer for the evening, dropping in three fielders and four fouls for ten points.

TEACHERS DEFEATED BY STUDENT TEAM

Faculty Unable To Cope with Scoring Ability of Proteges

Central Junior High basketeers handed their intellectual superiors a sound beating last night on the court, taking the teachers into camp by the score of 31 to 10. The varsity outfit had its way most of the time, the faculty not being able to continue at top speed for anything like the length of the game.

In other games of the evening Room 20 defeated Room 21 13 to 0 and Room 6 beat Room 22 by the lopsided count of 27 to 8.

MARION VALETS WIN AGAIN

Led by their flashy forward, W. Adams, Marion Valets scored almost at will last night to win from the Delaware Big Fours by a 29 to 9 count. The game was more exciting and closely contested than the score indicates although at no time were the locals in danger of being headed.

PLAY NEARLY OVER

Three Games To Be Played in Big Ten

By International News Service

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 8—The Western Conference basketball season for 1930 today entered its final phase as Purdue, undisputed champions of the Big Ten, prepared for their last game of the year against Chicago tonight.

The undefeated Purdue five, with nine straight victories, tonight will strive to make the first perfect conference record since 1919. Only three games are left before the season ends Monday night.

Indiana plays the second place Wisconsin team at Madison, Wis., tonight and the year's schedule is concluded Monday night when Indiana meets Minnesota at Minneapolis.

RUPPERT WILL OFFER RUTH TWO YEAR TERM AT $80,000 EACH

Babe Will Leave Yankee Camp Unless Signed Today

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 8—Babe Ruth, the celebrated holdout, will probably come to terms soon with the management of the New York Yankees. He may sign today, and he may not, but it won't be long in the opinion of those who know the Bambino pretty well.

Ruth has talked the whole thing over with the missus, who really is the Babe's new manager and a good one at that. He told her last night all about his conference with Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees.

The consensus is that Ruth will accept the offer of Ruppert of a two year contract at $80,000 per year in preference to the second offer of the boss to pay him eighty-five grand for one year. Nobody knows it better than Ruth himself that he is nearing the decline of his great baseball career. Ruppert insists he will not go a nickel higher than $85,000 for one year or $80,000 per annum for two years. The Babe and the boss have ceased to debate on a three year basis.

Ruth has drawn half a million dollars from the Yanks since he joined the club 10 years ago. In 1920 his pay check was $20,000. In 1921 he got $20,000. From 1922 to 1926 inclusive he was paid $50,000 per season. In 1927, 1928 and 1929 his annual pay check was $70,000.

It is estimated that Ruth is now worth about a quarter of a million dollars. He should have been a millionaire, what with all the money he received from testimonials and the like in addition to his regular pay as a ball player. He has been a heavy spender up to the last year or two, however, and many thousands of dollars have slipped through his hands.

Ruth is no longer a play boy. He has developed into a good business man and is well advised by his manageress. He would be like a fish out of water if he did not play ball and no one here believes he will remain a holdout. The general belief of his friends is that he will sign a two year contract at $80,000 a year in preference to a one year contract at $85,000.

The slugger either will sign his contract with owner Ruppert or turn in his uniform after today's exhibition game with the Boston Braves.

Ruth made the following statement:

"I will play in today's game for I have given my word to do so. But hereafter, I think it only right to myself that I stay out of all games until such time as my contract has been signed.

"The move is strictly one of protection to myself. If I should, by any chance, be injured in such a game while not under contract, I would be completely out on a limb. It's easy to pull a charley horse, strain a muscle, sprain an ankle or something of that sort and such an accident before my contract is signed would be the end of my chances."

EXCITING BATTLE MARKS MAT CARD

Eustace and Draak Draw in Semi-Final; Card One of Best Ever Presented in Marion

BY KARL R. McLLROY

The Iowa farmer boy took plenty in the way of punishment before he managed to pin his opponent for the final fall of the match. Wilson, former lightheavy champ of the Big Ten who was taught a big bag of tricks by Jack Reynolds, displayed the greatest variety of holds and speed ever unearthed on the Marion mat.

The breaks were against the young Indiana physician, however. Wearing Kauffman to the point of exhaustion with a leg split and a series of flying wrist and headlocks, Wilson took the first fall in 18 minutes.

But Kauffman was too good a boy last night to give up over a little thing like punishment. He came back strong to take the second fall in eight minutes and the third and deciding pin of the match in nine minutes. A crotch slam gave Kauffman both [illegible]

Wilson seemed a little too ambitious to please the fans. He threw all caution to the winds and carried the match to the farmer boy all the way. His speed and endurance were more than a match for Kauffman but the winner's perfect feinting threw the former collegiate star off his guard. Apparently ready to wilt to the mat, Kauffman suddenly [illegible] taking Wilson by surprise.

Two heavyweights gave the fans plenty of action in the semi-final in which Alan Eustace and Tom Draak wrestled to a draw. The decision was rather unpopular with fans. Most of the ticketholders favored Eustace.

Hugh Willard one of Marion's mat artists, lasted just one minute with Farmer Bell of Delaware. Willard was forced to give up when Bell applied a full nelson and a body scissors.

In the future, according to an announcement made from the ring, wrestling cards here will be presented on Friday nights.

Profit-Taking Upsets Stocks

OIL STOCKS IN GOOD DEMAND BY TRADERS

Hoover's Survey of Employment Carries Encouraging Note

INDUSTRY STILL UNEVEN

Youngstown, Bethlehem Steel Shares Boom Under Merger Rumors

By International News Service

NEW YORK, March 8 — Though forward price movements in a number of the speculative favorites took place in the week-end market, the advance as a whole was checked by the usual profit taking and short selling following in the wake of the spirited rise in prices this week.

President Hoover's survey of employment conditions was encouraging, but the week-end surveys of Dun's, Bradstreet's and the banking houses pointed out the unevenness of important sections of industry and trade, with a five per cent falling off in steel output in the interior points. Automobile registration, building construction, bank clearings and retail trade turnover are suffering by comparison with last year, and first quarter earnings of industrial and railroad companies will be considerably under those of the same period last year.

Oil stocks were in good demand on announcement of a large curtailment of refinery runs by Sinclair, Beacon and other oil companies. Mexican Seaboard jumped about 3½ points to 20, and fractional gains were recorded for Atlantic Refining, Pure Oil and the Standards of New York, New Jersey and California.

Rumors of a projected merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Co. were again heard in the financial district, following the visit of President James Campbell of Youngstown to this city. This accounted for the strength and activity of both stocks, substantial buying having taken place for the accounts of "insiders" in New York and Ohio.

Spectacular price movements in the well known stocks were generally lacking, as both professionals and outside traders held off from the shares that have risen so buoyantly this week. Wall Street believes that a reaction is overdue, on technical grounds if for no other reason.

Week-end commodity markets were unsettled, with cotton breaking an additional 17 points.

Today's Review of Yesterday's Grain

CHICAGO, March 8 — After an early bulge rather persistent selling appeared in the local wheat market and prices showed a reactionary tendency for the remainder of the day. Political news continued the feature of trading and the market was nervous, with manifest support in the May credited to the farm board agencies checking reactions.

Calling of the carlot delivery rule into effect broke corn prices sharply and there was also some selling on heavier arrivals and accompanying weakness in the cash. Oats were fairly steady, but rye was weak. March and May corn and March rye sold at new crop lows.

At the close wheat was weak, but May was being supported and finished unchanged.

Wheat Trade Puzzled

The wheat trade was largely at sea yesterday, and many of the traders were frank in admitting that was their position. There were indications that the government agencies were supporting prices. Consequently even with the balance of the news bearish there was no disposition to press the selling side.

On the other hand, Mr. Legge's statement that the board had no intention of advancing prices, but merely acting toward stabilization was not conducive of bullish activity in the face of the bearish news. Buying by the agencies was not aggressive on advances, but appeared when prices took a turn for the worse. The upshot of it all was a rather sluggish trade.

While some looked upon the Farm Board's statement of the previous day as moderately bullish, the majority paid it little attention regarding it as merely reiteration.

Car Lot Rule Effective

Action of the directors in invoking the car lot delivery rule affected the March delivery. Sanford Evans was out with additional bearish analysis of the wheat situation and after calling attention to the small world's shipments said he did not believe exporting countries could win in a showdown fight, adding that Europe produces half of the world crop and can increase production.

Heavier arrivals, the car lot rule and weakness in the cash market gave corn a heavy tone shortly after a firm start with wheat. Stop orders were uncovered on the break and shorts and holders of privileges were principal buyers. The cash trading basis was steady to 2c lower. Shipping demand remained fairly quiet.

Pleads Not Guilty in Non-Support Case

Roy Powelson, Marion rural route No. 3, submitted, through his attorney, a plea of not guilty to a charge of non-support of a parent, which has been filed against him in municipal court.

Powelson was released on his own recognizance until hearing on the charge Monday.

He is charged with failure to support his father, Charles E. Powelson, since Jan. 1, 1928.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Egg markets were fluctuating direly today with but little consistency in local prices. They were selling today at every price between 25 and 32 cents a dozen.

The egg market may go either direction over the week-end. Some grocers had a tendency to sell eggs lower today, while others were keeping the prices up.

Spinach was selling at 15 cents a bunch, or two bunches for 25 cents according to this morning's quotations.

Business News from Wall St.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 8—Building and engineering contracts awarded last month in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains reached a total of $317,053,000, according to the F. W. Dodge Corp. Compared with the January total of $323,975,200, there was a decrease of only two per cent; and February, 1930, was 12 per cent below January, 1929. Total contracts awarded during the first two months of this year have amounted to $641,028,000, a decrease of 17 per cent from that for the first two months of last year.

The Union Pacific railroad has ordered 25 locomotives from the American Locomotive Co.

Directors of the Coca Cola International Corp., a holding company for the Coca Cola Co. of Atlanta, Ga., have declared a quarterly dividend of $3 a share against $3 paid previously. The dividend is payable April 1, to stock of record March 12.

MRS. UNCAPHER, 83, PASSES AWAY HERE

Death Follows Illness of Three Weeks; Funeral Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Rachel Guthery Uncapher, born in Montgomery township, Sept. 3, 1846, died at the age of 83, at 9:30 o'clock last night at the home of her son, Amos Guthery Uncapher, 435 North Main st. A three weeks illness of complications, combined with old age, caused her death.

Mrs. Uncapher was the daughter of William and Lucinda Cleveland Guthery. She was the widow of James Presley Uncapher, to whom she was married Sept. 3, 1870, in Kenton. She was a member of Trinity Baptist church.

Surviving children are Mr. Uncapher, at whose home she died, James Edward Uncapher, Columbus, and Mrs. Anna Ethel Shaffstall, of Nevada. Eleven grandchildren are living.

Brothers and sisters surviving are John D. Guthery, Pearl st., James Guthery, west of Meeker, Mrs. Leonard Metz, of DeCliff, and Mrs. A. J. Ducath, of Meeker.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home, East Center st., in charge of the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

The body may be viewed at the funeral home until funeral time Monday.

Gymnasium apparatus invented in Germany to strengthen children's legs consist of wooden blocks set at angles over which children walk with bare feet.

CITY BRIEFS

Funeral Monday—Funeral services for Wanda Phelps, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Phelps, will be held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home, 159 Silver st. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

Gets Permit—Building permit for a $135 garage at 127 Cat[illegible] st. was issued to W. I. Lenton this morning.

Funeral at Church—Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's Catholic church for Miss Anna Keenan, who died Wednesday afternoon at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hoehn, 475 Oak st. The Rev. William J. Spieseman, pastor officiated. Interment was made in St. Mary's Catholic cemetery.

Taken to Clinic—Mrs. Charles L. Jacobs, 905 South Prospect st., was taken to the Frederick C. Smith clinic last night in the W. C. Boyd invalid car. She will undergo treatment at the clinic.

Undergoes Operation—D. E. Whipp, Marion R. F. D. No. 1, underwent abdominal operation this morning at City hospital.

Buried at Delaware—Short funeral services were held at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon for Mrs. Ida Alice Lemley, at the home of her son, T. W. Lemley, 929 Davids st. After services here the body was taken to Delaware in the W. C. Boyd funeral car, for services at 2 o'clock in the Zion Reformed church. Mrs. Lemley was found dead in bed Thursday morning. The Rev. DeWitt Ewing, of Lancaster, former pastor of the Delaware church, returned to his former charge to officiate at the funeral services. Burial was made in Delaware cemetery.

Minor Operation—J. I. Oberlander, 20 Fourteenth av., Columbus, underwent a minor operation at City hospital this morning.

BEETHAM TO SPEAK AT MEETING HERE

State Prohibition Commissioner Will Address W. C. T. U. Institute

Rupert R. Beetham, Cadiz, prohibition commissioner of Ohio, will deliver the principal address at the annual Marion County Woman's Christian Temperance Union institute to be held Thursday afternoon and evening at the Prospect Street M. E. church.

Other speakers will be Mrs. Nellie M. Hill, Elyria, state lecturer for the W. C. T. U., and John H. Clark, this city. Complete plans for the institute will be announced early next week.

A feature of the session will be the covered dish luncheon to be served at 5:30 o'clock in the church dining-room, at which time members of the Marion County Ministerial association and their wives will be guests of honor.

Plans for the evening meeting include a musical program by members of the Park Street A. M. E. church choir. The public is invited to attend both the afternoon and evening sessions.

MEEKER GROUP MEETS

ON LECTURE COURSE

MAURICE HINDUS

STUDENT OF RUSSIA TO SPEAK THURSDAY

Noted Speaker and Writer on High School Entertainment Program

Maurice Hindus, a leading authority on Russia and the Orient, will make his second appearance on the Harding High school senior entertainment course, when he comes here Thursday night at the Star auditorium.

Mr. Hindus, of whom Glenn Frank, president of Wisconsin university said, "I can say of him what G. K. Chesterton said of H. G. Wells, 'You can almost hear his mind growing,'" is the author of three books, of which "Humanity Uprooted" is the best known.

He was in Russia and Siberia in the summer of 1929, and was a first hand observer of the clash with China. His lectures are based on these first hand studies of the countries and people he talks about.

Seats may be reserved Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the high school.

MAY BE FAIR

Sunday To Be Warmer and Sunny, Forecast Says

Prospects for a pleasant week-end were favorable today, following predictions of fair weather and rising temperature tonight and Sunday by official weather forecasters.

Marion's "cold wave" last night consisted mainly of mixed snow and rainfall of nearly half an inch, swept in from the north by strong winds which forced the mercury down to a low mark of 32 degrees. The cold weather last night followed a 23 degree drop in local temperatures.

A year ago the mercury went to 14 for the night's low mark, after a drop of 29 degrees.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the Court of Common Pleas, Marion County, Ohio, Cause No. 21120.

In the Matter of the Application of A. M. Fetter, H. A. Laucher, Earl Stiffler, C. D. Mayers, and George J. Miller, Trustees of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Richland Township, Marion County, Ohio.

Notice is hereby given that A. M. Fetter, H. A. Laucher, Earl Stiffler, C. D. Mayers, and George J. Miller, Trustees of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Richland Township, Marion County, Ohio, have filed their application in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio, being Cause No. 21120, praying for authority of said court to sell and dispose of the following described real estate held by them for use and benefit of said church.

Being situated in the County of Marion, Township of Richland, and State of Ohio, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

Being a part of the West half of the Northeast quarter of Section 19, Township 6, South of Range 16, bounded as follows. Beginning at a point in the center of State road No. 98 in Richland Township, Marion County, Ohio, where the same is intersected by the center line of the Mayers County Road No. 150, thence Westward along the center line of the said Mayers County Road No. 150, 117 feet, 6 inches to a point, thence in a Northerly direction 72 feet, 11 inches to a point, thence Eastward 122 feet, 6 inches to a point in the Center of said Road No. 98 which said point is 51 feet, 9 inches Northerly from the place of beginning, thence in a Southerly direction along the center of said road, 51 feet, 9 inches to the place of beginning.

Said above described lot or tract of land being a strip of land off of the South side of the following described tract of land:

Commencing where the East and West line between the aforesaid Daniel Worline and Daniel Oborn crosses the Columbus and Sandusky turnpike road, thence West with said line to the first rivulet; thence with the meanderings of said rivulet North and East to the aforesaid turnpike road; thence South with said road to the place of beginning, supposed to contain one-quarter of an acre, be the same more or less.

Said real estate being held in fee simple by purchase, said Trustees desire to sell and dispose of the first above described real estate for the reason that same is of no use or benefit to the congregation of said church and that it would be for the best interests and welfare of said congregation to sell and dispose of the same.

Said cause will be for hearing at 9 o'clock A. M., on the 29th day of March, 1930.

ASK RECEIVER FOR LA RUE PHONE CO.

Action Taken as Result of $25,000 Loss from Storm Damage

Loss from damage done to the wires and service of the LaRue Telephone Co. by sleet storms early this year today resulted in the filing of a petition in common pleas court for the appointment of a receiver for the concern.

The petition, brought by Jerry Carroll, M. R. Stern and others, declares the company sustained a $25,000 loss because of the storms and a result is unable to meet current expenses.

The company has $55,000 in assets and, in addition to the $25,000 loss due to storms, has an outstanding bond issue of $50,000.

Telephone lines in LaRue and vicinity are operated by the company; one of the few surviving independent telephone companies in Marion county.

FORMER MARIONITE DIES IN ILLINOIS

John Wallace is Claimed at Murphysboro; Body To Be Brought Here

John Wallace, former Marion man, died in Murphysboro, Ill., yesterday morning. Details of his death were not learned here. Mr. Wallace and his daughter, Mrs. C. G. Ripley, of Stamford, Conn., the former Miss Lena Wallace, were well-known in Marion.

The body will arrive here at 5 o'clock Sunday morning to await funeral services at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been made. The body will probably be taken to the parlors of a local funeral director, according to Mrs. L. E. Nebergall, 734 East Church st., sister-in-law of Mr. Wallace.

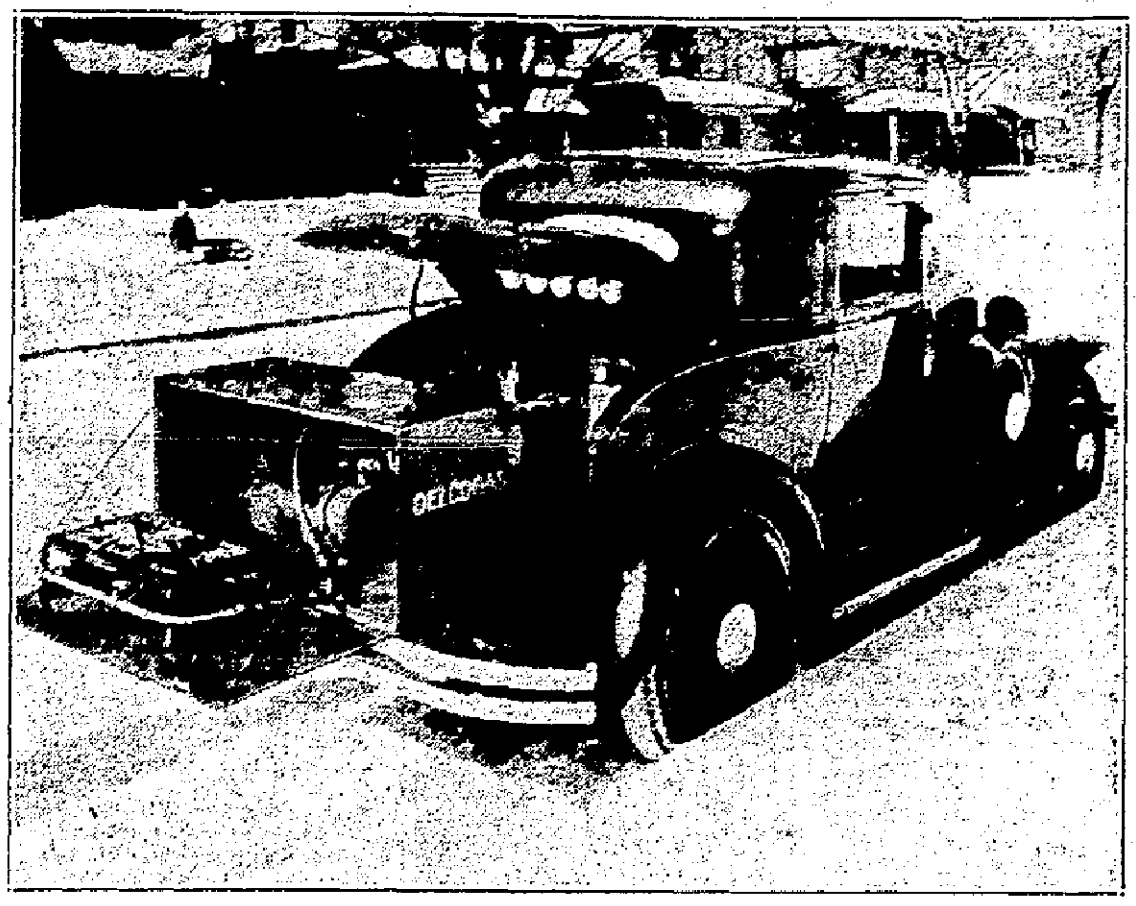
MOHAT SETS DELCO-LIGHT SALES RECORD

MARION MAN LEADS OHIO DISTRICT



S. E. Mohat, pictured above, has established a new record for Ohio dealers of Delco-Light and Delcogas to shoot at.

At the right is pictured Mohat's "double-barrelled" sales argument. Mounted in the rear of the machines are units of the two products he sells successfully to farmer homes in this section of the state.

He has been with the General Motors sales department for about two years.

A MARION man leads the entire Ohio district in Delco-Light and Delcogas sales, it was revealed at the factory branch office in Dayton today.

He is S. E. Mohat, of 635 North Main st., who changed from the Delco-Light service work to a dealership Oct. 15, 1928, less than two years ago.

Mr. Mohat, in addition to his leadership in volume of business turned in for the Marion territory, has won considerable recognition for his progressive business methods. An example of his up-to-date activity is his traveling showroom, which, in the language of his trade, is called a demonstrator car.

Good Argument

The car, which has been referred to as a double-barreled sales argument, contains a complete Delco-Light and a Delcogas, with hotplate attached, giving the Marion man equipment to demonstrate either or both of these General Motors products.

Mr. Mohat, in reviewing his success in this territory, gives due credit to Mrs. Mohat who takes unusual interest in his business. When the Delco-Light dealer starts to call on a prospect, his wife always checks up on his equipment to be sure that he has left nothing at home that will help him make the Delco-Light and Delco*gas story clearer to the customer.*

From Oct. 15, 1928, until Jan. 1, 1929, Mr. Mohat's gross business amounted to $3,800. That would be considered a good volume for any new business man. Then during 1929 he pushed the Delco-Light and Delcogas business to $10,800 for the year, a volume of business that put Mr. Mohat among Marion's leading retail dealers in any line. So far this year his gross sales have amounted to $2,700.

Mr. Mohat's sales speak not only for his success as a local business man but is a testimonial for the progressiveness of Marion County people. It means that dozens of rural homes have become modernized through the use of these General Motors products. It means that rural life in this section represents the advantages of the city without the crowded conditions of the towns. It shows that the people of this section are prospering.

Delco-Light individual electric plants have been on the market for nearly fourteen years. In that time the factory has grown from a small shop to a mammoth unit in General Motors. The plants have grown from one model to a variety that provides electric light and power for any farm purpose. More than 350,000 Delco-Lights are in use throughout the world, with the first unit ever built still giving good service.

Delcogas is a new product. Its production on a quantity basis having just begun. Nation-wide distribution has just started and Mr. Mohat is one of the first to put the device, which makes gas for homes beyond the city mains, on the market.

Mortgage Loans Drop, Realty Transfers Up

Loans on Real Estate Drop from $57,698 Last Week to $41,855 This Week; Property Exchanges Increase from 20 to 39

Although mortgages recorded in the county recorder's office took a drop of nearly $16,000 under the previous week, real estate transfers for the past week are almost double the preceding week's figure. Transfers increased from 20 to 39.

Mortgages totaled $41,855.30 as compared with $57,698.35 for last week, while real estate transfers totaled 39 as compared to 20 the week before.

The number of mortgages increased, however, there being twenty during the past week and 16 the week previous.

Loan companies were involved in exactly $10,000 of the mortgages. Mortgages within Marion and outside the city were practically equal, $21,000 being placed in the county and $20,855.30 in the city.

Following is a list of transfers:

Leslie E. Adams to Mildred Luellan, part two Marion lots, $1.

MARION MARKETS HAVE QUIET WEEK

Egg Prices Tumble for Only Sensation of Week; Strawberries Here

Marion markets experienced a comparatively quiet week, ending today, with nearly all items selling at prices quoted at the opening of the week.

Eggs, which crashed the market for consecutive drops totaling 12 cents lopped off another cent early in the week to sell at 28 to 32 cents a dozen.

Small head lettuce, quoted at eight cents, is becoming a fairly popular seller, although the choicer and larger heads still sell at 10 and 15 cents each.

New beets were quoted on the markets last week at 10 and 15 cents a bunch.

The local demand for strawberries has become such that grocers have decided to make them a part of the late winter stock. The berries come from Florida and sell between 55 and 65 cents a quart in most groceries. As a result of these prices, which are 10 cents below the former prices, the first strawberry shortcake of the season was being served last week.

BANK FIGURES UP

More Than $1,600,000 Pass Through Clearing House in Week

Bank clearings passed the $1,600,000 mark during the week, reports from the Marion Savings Bank, clearing house, show. Clearings for the week were $1,633,179.05.

Distribution of tax money by the county auditor to taxing districts was responsible for the unusally large total. On Tuesday, the clearings amounted to $738,616.01 as a result of the distribution. Wednesday was also large with clearings of $460,545.81 reported.

Total clearings for the preceding week were $437,606.26.

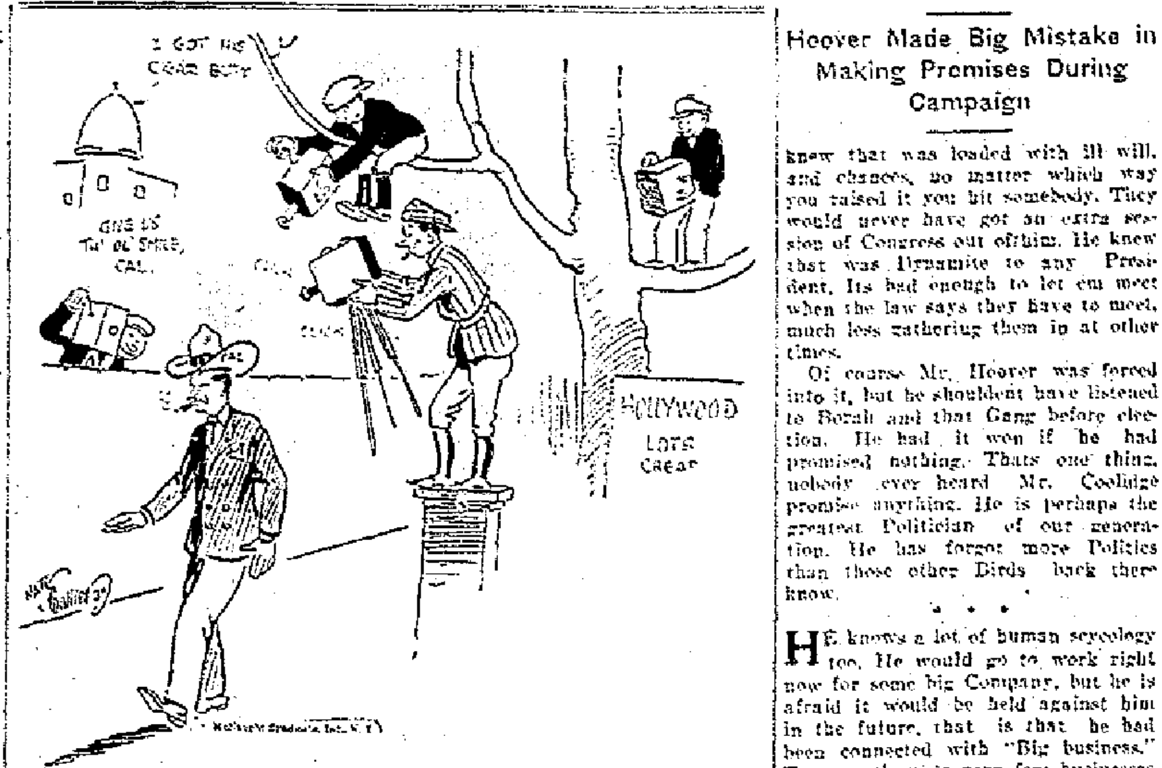
[illegible] Mr. Hoover made [illegible] in our Deligation [illegible] on Joe Robinson [illegible] "he was a very able [illegible]"

* * *

MRS. COOLIDGE wanted particularly to hear about Mrs. [illegible] likes Mrs. Dawes very [illegible] told me, and she is a [illegible] old Lady, just the opposite in manner from Charley. I was fortunate enough to be placed at dinner next to Mrs. Coolidge and she is a Dandy. And you know a funny thing she would tell a story and imitate his twang, or New England voice, and could she do it? Say. I make a living imitating Mr. Coolidge, but she has me beat, and she did it right there before him, I dident think she would have the nerve.



I GOT HIS CIGAR BUTT
ONE OF THE OLD STYLE, CAL.
HOLLYWOOD
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.

As of Old!

We talked about the Stearns, their old friends up in Boston, and I told them I had met Mr. Stearns and liked him very much, and told her the story that I used on the stage about her packing up to leave the White House, and after I had finished it, she told me now I will tell you the story as it really happened. Mr. Coolidge and I were coming home from Church one morning and he asked me when we moved back to Northampton what I was going to do with all my clothes? I said well I guess I will have to put them in the closet. He said, "You better put them in the bed room and we will sleep in the closet."

She was telling about them both writing for the Magazines, and I asked her if they dident ever get mixed up on what they were writing and both perhaps refer to the same thing, and she told us, "One day Mr. Coolidge happened to pick up a page of my manuscript and said, "I need that, you better leave it out'." She said however that enough things happened there that both had plenty to write about.

* * *

SHE had that day been over to the studio watching them make the Movies, and she was all enthused about it, and she pulled a good one, as they had been photographed with all the different Stars and in every conceivable "Set" or place, she said. "I think we are the only ones I saw working all day. Nobody else was taking any pictures." As they went to the Studio and as they take her little car she started to take her little Movie Camera, and Mary Pickford told her to leave it. She couldn't understand that, and neither could I. She said, "I suppose they thought I would take something I ought not to show." But anyhow Mary gave commands to our former First Lady of the Land.

I flew through El Paso the morning after they had passed through and the Reporters had asked him how he liked West Texas and what he thought of its advancement. He replied, "It looks just like it did 21 years ago when I was here." That dident go so well with the Taxicans.

He had wired ahead to a friend to get them "a room at the Biltmore hotel. Nothing elaborate, and please meet us at the train and show us up there." Naturally the Hotel gave him the whole end of it. But wasent that just like him, and having the Friend meet them at the Station and show them up there? Why thats like Lindberg having letters of recommendation to the French. Why Lord half the Town met them at the Station.

* * *

YOU know its remarkable the hold that little fellow has on the people. They sure do believe in him. They know that he dont do anything when in there. But he does nothing just at the time when the people want nothing done. You never caught him messing with any Tarriff he knew that was loaded with ill will, and chances, no matter which way you raised it you hit somebody. They would never have got an extra session of Congress out of him. He knew that was Dynamite to any President. Its bad enough to let em meet when the law says they have to meet, much less gathering them in at other times.

Of course Mr. Hoover was forced into it, but he shouldent have listened to Borah and that Gang before election. He had it won if he had promised nothing. Thats one thing, nobody ever heard Mr. Coolidge promise anything. He is perhaps the greatest Politician of our generation. He has forgot more Politics than those other Birds back there know.

* * *

HE knows a lot of human sycology too. He would go to work right now for some big Company, but he is afraid it would be held against him in the future, that is that he had been connected with "Big business." You see there is very few businesses that dont have business with the Government, and he is afraid that it would be said that they hired him to help get something about their income tax fixed, or something of that sort. So he is just laying off, AND YOU WATCH HIM. You are going to hear a lot more of him. I have already invited him to be my Guest at my ranch when he is Ex President the NEXT time.

OUTLINE SERVICES FOR LENT PERIOD

Rev. H. F. Weckmueller Plans Sermon Program and Church Activties

The Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed church, has outlined services at his church through the Lenten season up to and including Easter Sunday when new members will be received, communion held, and a sacred Easter cantata will be given by the choir.

Sunday morning he will preach on "The Word of Forgiveness," and at night on "Barabbas." On March 16, "Word of Pardon," and at night, his morning subject will be "The "Pilate's Wife." "The Word of Care" has been chosen for the services at night.

On March 30 he will preach in the morning on "The Word of Anguish" and "Joseph of Arimathaea," at night. Examination of the confirmation class will be made Sunday night, April 6. In the morning of that day he will preach on "The Word of Need."

Palm Sunday, April 13, has been set aside for confirmation and baptism of children in the morning, with a sermon on "The Word of Victory." At night the Rev. Mr. Weckmueller will be host at a reunion of the confirmation classes and a special program.

Friday, April 18, Good Friday, in the churches, will be observed with union services from 12 to 3 o'clock at Epworth M. E. church. "The Word of Trust" will be the Rev. Mr. Weckmueller's sermon topic for the night service at his church.

PLAN EPWORTH M. E. MID-WEEK PROGRAM

Woman's Foreign Missionary Society To Meet at 2:15 Friday

"The Man Who Came Back" will be the subject of Dr. C. E. Turley's talk at the midweek services at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at Epworth M. E. church.

Activities for the week at Epworth include a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society at 2:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the junior room of the church. Mrs. Sadie Moss will have charge of the devotionals, "The Unfinished Task." Founder's Day services, "Then and Now," will be given by Mrs. L. S. Irey and eight women, representing the eight founders. Mrs. Florence Shaw Rutherford will sing a vocal solo. Chapter five of the study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," will be given by Mrs. Adam Bauer.

Circle of Light, King's Daughters, will meet Monday night with Mrs. Emmanuel Fogle, 108 South Prospect st.

Good Cheer circle of King's Daughters will have a dinner at the church at 6 o'clock Thursday night, followed by a work meeting.

Members of Circle No. 6 will be hostesses at a meeting of the General Aid society at 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon at the church.

To Hold Three Services at Greenwood Church

There will be three services at Greenwood Evangelical church Sunday, closing an evangelistic campaign. The Rev. E. E. Haskins, of Akron, and the Rev. C. H. Kern, of the Moody Bible Institute, have been conducting the services with the assistance of the Rev. Irvin Kaufman, pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Kern will preach at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. At 2:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 at night, the Rev. Mr. Haskins will preach.

New members will be received into the church Sunday morning.

PLANS REVIVAL

Central Christian Church to Bring Evangelist Here for Services

Central Christian church is planning a series of evangelistic meetings scheduled to begin March 16. The Rev. William J. Lockhart, of Des Moines, Ia., will lead these services, with the music in charge of his son, George Lockhart, who is also gifted in dramatizing Bible stories.

Evangelist Lockhart has closed a series of meetings at Champaign, Ill., at which there were 215 accessions to the church membership.

Sinless Religion

A SERMONETTE

BY THE REV. W. C. BOWMAN
Pastor, Second Pilgrim Holiness Church

THIS is what God's word teaches us and not a sinning religion as some would have us believe that we have to sin a little every day in word, thought or deed. When the angel Gabriel announced the birth of Christ He said "thou shalt call His name Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins." Matt. 1-21.

If some one saves a person from drowning they do not keep on drowning, do they? So neither does any one who Christ saves keep on sinning. 2nd Cor. 5-17. This is what Jesus came for as prophesied by Zachariah, Luke 1—13:14:15. Also first John 3, 4 to 10.

God's word teaches "the soul that sinneth it shall die. Ezk. 18:20. This includes at least two deaths—spiritually and eternally.

The skeptics and infidels try to tell us that Adam and Eve did not die as God said they would, but any Bible student knows that when they disobeyed God they died spiritually. And if God had not come to their rescue they would have died eternally. If we want to see God's attitude toward sin look at Calvary when His only begotten son took on Himself the sins of the world. God turned His head because of His displeasure against sin and Jesus took up the wail of all lost souls. My God! Why has thou forsaken me? Mark 15:34. Let us get rid of sin before sin gets rid of us. Ezk. 18:30.

DR. F. A. STENGEL ON CHURCH PROGRAM

Will Talk on "Strange Places of Worship"; Has Travelled in West

Dr. F. A. Stengel, who has travelled extensively in the west, engaging in study and research work, will speak at Forest Lawn Presbyterian church Sunday night on the subject, "Strange Places of Worship."

Dr. Stengel has visited over 20 national parks and monuments and has taken many pictures in his travels, from which he has had lantern slides made.

These slides will be shown with his talk. They are of strange Indian tribes and their worship, Pueblo and cliff dwellers in Arizona, petrified forests, Canyon De Shelley, Grand Canyon of Arizona, old missions and places of interest in southern California, Mt. Lassen the only active volcano in America, some of the famous mountains of the west, Mt. Shasta, Mt. Hood and Mt. Ranier, the world famed Columbia river scenic highway, Indian totem poles, places in British Columbia and scenes in Glacier and Yellowstone National parks.

Dr. Stengel will talk at 7 o'clock.

TO BROADCAST

Pastor and Members of Trinity Church to be on Air

From 5 to 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity church, and several of the church members, will broadcast over WAIU, Columbus. The Rev. Mr. Wood will speak on "The Presence of the Living Christ."

Robert Swisher and Miss Melvina Summers will assist on the program. Both are members of Trinity choir. Mr. Swisher will sing three numbers, accompanied at the piano by Miss Summers, who will follow these numbers with a piano solo.

The program has been outlined as follows:

"Open My Eyes," Scott, and "Beside Still Waters," Jerome, sung by Mr. Swisher; "The Sunken Cathedral," Debussey, Miss Summers; "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go," Peace, by Mr. Swisher; sermon by the Rev. Mr. Wood.

Automatically controlled electric heat is used to warm the air that dries lumber in 18 hours without damaging it in a California plant.

Trinity Baptist Church History Closely Connected With Marion

BY HALLIE HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

PRESENT Trinity Baptist church has an interesting history that dates back to 1824, and includes on its roster the membership of a president of the United States, Warren G. Harding.

Two years after the founding of the present city of Marion, in 1822, Baptist work in Marion was started by the organization of the Free Baptist church. The first meeting place was a brick school house on North Prospect st. There was a membership of a few or eight men and women.

Revival in Barn

Ninety members were added to the roll at the close of a revival in 1841, held in the barn and home of Jacob Ulsh. Land and all the timber for a new frame church were given by Mr. Ulsh. This new building was erected in 1842 on a road now called Mt. Vernon av., near Summit st. Later, this building was moved into the town and placed on a lot owned by Eber Baker, founder of the city, and donated at that time to the church. Until a few years ago this building stood on the east side of Vine st., and was used as a dwelling.

The corner stone of this building, bearing the inscription, "FREE WILL BAPTIST CHURCH" ERECTED A. D. 1842, is now in the walls of the South Main st. church.

Philip Phillips organized the first choir, which had a membership of E. G. Allen, Charles Baker, B. F. Camp, Dr. Herrick, Patsy Boyd, Sue Boyd, Princess Baker and Antonia and Electa Griswold. Allen Baker, the leader, always rapped with a tuning fork to obtain the proper pitch.

In October, 1857, the Ladies' Mite society was organized. It was decided to build a brick church on East Center st. in 1865. Because of the Civil war, the work was delayed and the church was not dedicated until the fall of '67. The building cost $16,000. The present parsonage at 361 South State st. was purchased in August, 1902.

Build New Church

Under the pastorate of the Rev. O. D. Patch, 1880-81, the Woman's Missionary society was organized. The Christian Endeavor society, organized about 1887, bought the Sunday school organ and gave a memorial window to the church.

It was decided to build a new church and the present location on South Main st. was bought in July, 1901. The cornerstone was laid Aug. 17, 1905. Last services in the Center st. church were held July 26, 1908.

A Sunday school was organized in a building at Davids and Darius sts., with the personal interest and supervision of Anna W. Fite, to speed its success. This afterwards became an organized church, now known as Fite Memorial Baptist church.

Not long after the new church was occupied the Free and First Baptist churches united. The First Baptist church had been organized here in the fall of 1885. The late Dr. George T. Harding was treasurer of the united church for one term.

Trinity Baptist church was organized in April, 1912, with about 250 members of the former Free Baptist church and about 150 members of the First Baptist church. The Rev. Walter A. King took charge of the pulpit in November, 1912. In March, 1912, upon the request of about 50 members it was voted to grant their dismissal for the purpose of uniting in formation of Fite Memorial Baptist church. At a meeting in October, 1917, about 40 names were set aside to form a church on North Main st., known as Emmanuel Baptist church.

President Harding a Trustee

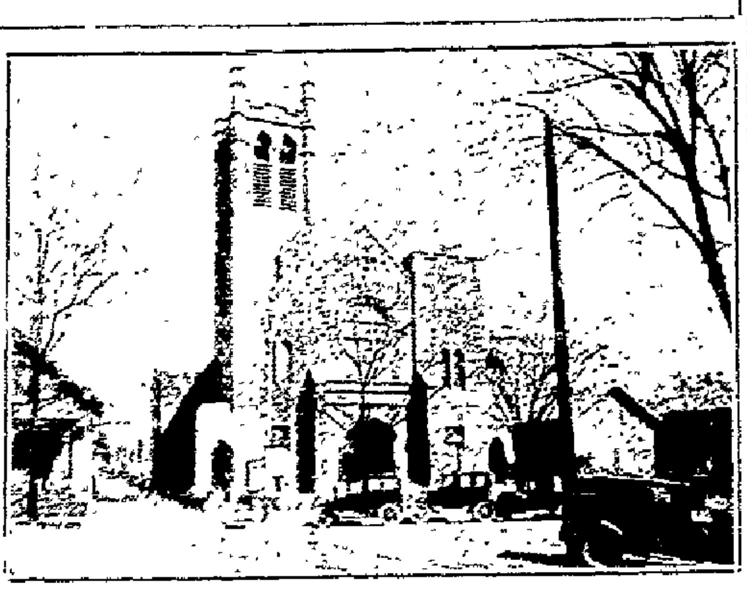
Dr. T. H. McAfee was one of the most active and best-beloved ministers of Trinity Baptist church. Following an illness Dr. McAfee was named pastor Emeritis, and the Rev. G. M. Landis was made pastor of the church.

While the pulpit was still draped for Dr. McAfee, news was received of the death of President Warren G. Harding in San Francisco. President Harding was a prominent member of Trinity church. He had served as trustee for more than 25 years.

Dr. U. S. Davis followed the Rev. Mr. Landis, and on July 1, 1928, resigned. In November of that year, the Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, present pastor, took over the duties.

Under the Rev. Mr. Wood's guidance, all societies and organizations of the church have been strengthened and plans are going forward for the erection of a Sunday school building in the rear of the present church.

The church membership is now approximately 760 and the Sunday school has an enrollment of about 700.



Trinity Baptist church, above, is the outgrowth of the Free Baptist church, organized here in 1824, and the First Baptist church, organized in 1855. Among the members of this historical church was the late President Warren G. Harding.

The Rev. Lawrence A. Wood took up his pastorate here in 1928, and since that time, the church has undergone a prosperous revival of activities and interests.

Intelligentsia Warring Against God.

Speaking at the Ash Wednesday services in Trinity Episcopal church in New York, Bishop William T. Manning uttered a truth, as absolute as it is lamentable, when he said that soviet Russia was not alone in waging war against God and religion; that here in the United States the so-called intellectuals are seeking to undermine religion and the accepted standards of morality and conduct.

"We see here in our own land," the bishop told his hearers, "an 'intelligentsia' which affects a contemptuous disregard for all religious belief; which by its belittling of the truths of revealed religion seeks to turn the mind of our youth against God; which is undertaking to break down the institution of marriage and the family, and the standards of morality and purity upon which Christian civilization depends."

Bishop Manning might have gone further and said that for parents to send their sons to some of our American universities and colleges was submitting them to influences which would tend to encourage them to become unbelievers if they did not become scorners of the Christian religion.

And the bishop could have gone on and said without doing violation to truth, that there are many educational institutions in this country today which are veritable hotbeds of pacificism and opposition to our form of government; institutions in which Americanism is belittled and internationalism is encouraged and American policies and ideals are held in derision and scorn. And, we believe, had the bishop wished to particularize a bit, he might have stated that one or two such institutions might possibly be located within range of an up-to-date piece of ordnance from the point from which he spoke.

What Is Joy-Riding?

Representative Leonidas C. Dyer, of Missouri, has introduced a bill to repeal the national automobile theft fact, of which he was the author, because of his conviction that it is defective in that it may be invoked in the prosecution of youthful joy-riders.

Representative Dyer has issued a statement in which he says he has received many letters indicating that young boys and girls are being convicted under the existing federal act, of which possibility he hadn't a thought when introducing it. He made public one of these letters, which was received from Edward J. Henning, a former judge of the United States court for the Southern district of California, in which the former judge says that he had often incurred the displeasure of the agents of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice because he would not deal harshly with these children.

"Most of the thefts I dealt with," the Henning letter reads, in part, "occurred along the southern tier of states, reaching as far east as Alabama and centering around Oklahoma. Usually they move in groups of two to four. Quite often they are imaginative youngsters who have dreamed of the great adventure of going to the Far West, and who have no way of making it except by walking or taking somebody else's car. * * *

"The federal courts are not organized to deal with children. I have whenever possible, requested the local authorities in the home of the parents or relatives of the juvenile offender to take over the matter and deal with it.

"After five years of much hard thinking on the subject, I have reached the conclusion that there is no practical solution of the matter except drastic limitation of the application of the act, or its repeal."

We are inclined to believe that the former judge's use of the word, children, is somewhat free. The term, children, legally may be applied to a long range of ages, but it commonly is applied to those between infancy and youth. We can hardly believe that Judge Henning had the latter definition in mind, but rather the legal. In any event, it may be the course of wisdom, and certainly it would be the course of mercy, to limit the operation of the law to those who are nearing their majorities and those who have attained major years, but surely there should be some law, aside from state laws, for the punishment of those who steal cars and travel from state to state in them unless it so happens that they smash the machines in traveling across the country.

And "youngsters," and by that the former judge means boys and girls in their late teens, who in groups of two or four steal cars and travel in them from Alabama to California, are very liable to be of the same stripe as the boys and girls who are responsible for many of the hold-ups, robberies and other thefts aside from joy-rides which stretch from Alabama to the Golden Gate state.

It is not difficult to see that the application of the national automobile theft law to the case of youthful joy-riders who drive about their home cities and in the nearby country districts would be an injustice. On the other hand, there is a little too much sentimentality regarding the handling of the crimes and offenses of youth. It is well to remember that the most of our criminals today are under twenty-five and a large percentage of them is under twenty-one.

Burglars broke into the show rooms of a motor car company over in Quincy, Illinois, and made off with a new automobile. It's a wonder that fellows possessed with that degree of nerve didn't order the company to deliver it.

To identify hit-and-run drivers, a New York man has invented a device which, attached to a machine, will discard paper disks, each bearing the license number of the car and the name of its owner, whenever the machine hits another car or other object. The fly in the ointment is that hit-and-run drivers are liable to prove lukewarm about equipping their cars with the device.

Over 5,000 citizens of Moscow were turned out of their homes this week to make room for others higher in the favor of the bolshevik government, which gives us another light on the soviet Russian conception of their slogan, "Liberty and Equality."

Taking the witness stand in his own defense in his trial for alleged extortion, the treasurer and sole walking delegate of a New York wood lathers' union testified that he drew a salary of $200 a week. Little wonder that the cost of building construction is high in New York!

A man is being held in New York City for the Los Angeles police authorities who charge that from August to December of last year he made loans aggregating $42,000 from sixteen motor financing companies by changing the motor number of his expensive sedan and presenting forged certificates of ownership. What a shame a man capable of pulling off a stunt like this couldn't have had sense enough to be honest.

An Elyria school teacher has been arrested for whipping a pupil with an eighteen-inch ruler. Back in our school days, the average school teacher seemed to feel that she lacked the vigor to do justice to the case and turned the offending pupil over to the superintendent, and if our memory serves us correctly, the hickory paddle he used was about two and a half feet long.

Prohibition Agent Willard Moglund transferred from Chicago to Buffalo, has been made defendant in three damage proceedings instituted in the former city. An Italian citizen has sued him for $100,000 for false arrest and for another $100,000 for alienating the affections of his wife, who has since married the agent, and two women want $25,000 damages for injuries sustained by them when Moglund smashed into their car while driving as they charge, when intoxicated. Seemingly, Mr. Moglund cut quite a swath up in the Windy City.

Nervous Headache!

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the most common ailments is headache. It is capable of incapacitating us so that for the time being we find no joy in living. Many a day of pain and ineffectual work is the consequence.

Any one of many conditions may produce headaches. They might be classified into two distinct classes, as:

1. Headaches due to some organic disease, and
2. Headaches which are symptoms of some functional disturbances.

The tissue cells and nerves of the brain are affected by the blood stream, just as every part of the body is affected by it. Poisons set up in the system are carried by the blood stream to the brain.

The chief cause of headache is eye strain. Young children, the middle-aged and those well on in years, all feel the bad effects of headaches at one time or another and usually from this cause.

With eye strain often comes a "nervous headache." School children may be sufferers from this sort because of poor lighting systems in the schoolrooms. You should have the eyes of a child examined and have glasses fitted if necessary. Long continued eye strain brings serious trouble sometimes.

Many persons have eye strain and headaches from looking at moving pictures. Even nausea and vomiting may occur. Such persons should have their eyes examined and rest them until they are stronger.

Any disease which is pus-producing in the system, causing poisons to circulate through the blood stream, may bring with it severe headaches. Abscessed teeth, infected tonsils, diseased nasal sinuses or suppuration of the ear, ulcer of the stomach, infected kidneys, or bladder, an infected appendix and anaemia are productive of headaches.

If you have long-continued headaches you should see your doctor and have a thorough physical examination. It may be only the eyes, but this is in itself a most important factor. The eyes should be looked after and kept in the best of condition. There is no more sensitive organ than the delicate eye.

If it should be that you have pus formation in your system you surely want to eliminate that. Do not suffer from headaches week in and week out without doing something about it. There is always some cause for these painful ailments. Why suffer and perhaps have a worse condition by procrastination?

Have you tried, as a cure for your headache, a quiet, dark room in order that you may sleep it off? Nothing is better than refreshing sleep.

Right here I want to caution you about taking headache powders or drugs of any sort for these headaches. Take as few of them as you possibly can, and never without medical advice, for they are frequently habit-forming, and it is not wise to resort to them. Cold compresses on the head will also aid much in driving away the pain.

Editorial Opinion.

TROUBLES IN SPAIN.

There are obviously two elements causing the political disturbances now confronting the Spanish government. One is the frankly republican movement. This has persisted, in one form or another, ever since the abortive Spanish republic of the early seventies in the last century. It has been strongest in Catalonia, the workshop of Spain, from which deputies calling themselves Republicans were often sent to the Cortes at Madrid. A few other centers in Spain have from time to time shown what were called republican sympathies, but this anti-monarchial sentiment never gained sufficient headway really to menace the throne. Now that it has suddenly gained a freer opportunity to manifest itself, it necessarily takes the form of opposition to King Alfonso. But in this there is nothing particularly new or ominous enough by itself to cause the government of the monarchy great uneasiness.

Cooperating with this old agitation, however, is the new one which directs itself mainly against the dictatorship. It is hostile to the king only in the sense that he meekly acquiesced in the rule of Primo de Rivera backed by the army. The opinion is widely expressed that Alfonso failed to exercise his prerogatives or duties as a constitutional monarch. This belief is now the darkest cloud on the future in Spain. In the violent reaction which followed a partial relaxation of the dictatorship it was natural for liberal-minded Spaniards to ask what kind of safeguard against its recurrence could be had from a king who himself submitted to it for six years. While these outcries seem extreme they were inevitable, as soon as tongues could wag free of the censorship, and easily tend to swell, along with the avowed Republicans, an anti-dynastic movement in Spain. This is what gives a little color to the report that King Alfonso may decide to abdicate.

His first instinctive appeal is to the army. That remains, for the present, the key to political developments in Spain. It was essentially a military golpe de estado which made Primo de Rivera dictator. He depended upon the army throughout, and when, greatly to his surprise, he found that army opinion was adverse to his remaining longer in power, he incontinently stepped out. This did not mean that the army proposed to loosen its grip. For one general at the head of affairs it substituted another. General Berenguer seemed to believe that he could little by little undo the rigors of the dictatorship and restore civil government in Spain. But men too long deprived of their political liberties are apt to press them too far and too violently when told that they may again exercise them.

This largely explains the turmoil which for the last few days has been afflicting Spain. In that kingdom the majority of the people are not political minded, and have been content to leave the conduct of public affairs to whatever regime could maintain itself. Hence it is almost entirely within the political class, comparatively small, that the actual excitements are coming to the surface. Nothing like a sweeping popular movement for or against the government seems probable in Spain today, yet the army chiefs and the various political and revolutionary leaders have it in their power to cause another governmental upset, and perhaps even to endanger the monarchy itself.—New York Times.

SILENCING RUSSIAN BELLS.

In its insane effort to abolish all traces of religion from Russia, the soviet government has even decreed that the ringing of bells must cease. The sound of bells, no matter for what they may be ringing, will bring memories of Sundays, of churches, and of religious festivals, and thus set the people to thinking of God, who, according to Stalin's decrees, must hereafter have no existence in Russia.

Somewhere in Tacitus, the Roman historian, is a story of a funeral procession, in which, as was the custom, the images of noble ancestors were carried. In this case, however, certain forebears of the deceased had been proscribed by the despotic government, and their images could not with safety be displayed. But, says Tacitus in substance—we have not the text at hand for exact quotation—they attracted all the more attention by the very fact of their absence.

And so with the Russian church bells. Just because of their despotically-enforced silence they will keep ringing in the spiritual ears of millions of Russian believers, not merely on the holy days of the old church calendar, but every day of the year. The Russian reign of terror comes too late in the world's history to achieve any permanent success for its unjust purposes and its brutal methods.—Columbus Dispatch.

Human Evolution.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Evolution is one of those disquieting hypotheses which is incapable of absolute proof. Various schools of evolutionary thought have been set up by the proponents of different theories regarding evolution.

According to Lamarck, changes in individuals are direct consequences of changes in environment, and furthermore, these individual changes are carried on, being transmitted by one generation to another. The consequence of this theory is that eventually racial changes are brought about.

Those who accept Darwinism believe that "variations of every sort are caused by changed conditions of life," but a sorting out process is going on all the while. If certain variations are harmful then they are eliminated, but variations which are beneficial, or as we say "adapted to environment," persist and constitute the basic material for further evolution.

There is another hypothesis, advanced by De Vries, which provides for greater latitude in the process of evolution. Thus variations may be described as changes in the developed organisms, and these changes are not inherited. But there are also "mutations," which we understand to be changes in the germplasm; and these mutations are inherited.

The two factors which must be constantly borne in mind are the organism and the environment. It is now pretty generally believed that variations which are inherited are caused by environment. But we must not lose sight of that vital substance upon which the environment acts, namely the organism. There is stimulus and reaction; and, as Conklin puts it, "the character of the response is determined in large part by the constitution of the germplasm rather than by the stimulus."

We must always draw a sharp distinction between germinal inheritance and social inheritance. First, let us suppose that changes in body cells produced by environmental influences are transmitted through the germ cells to the body cells of the next generation. This would seem to imply that "inheritance of acquired characters" requires the germ particles to react as the organs or the body as a whole react. This experimental evidence does not support any such conclusion.

There is, of course, a marked social inheritance. But this is no part of the germplasm. Such social inheritance as language, property, customs, laws, institutions belong rather to our environment. Whereas society as a whole may develop as a whole, each generation, with reference to germinal inheritance, must begin—not where the previous generation ended, but where it began. The whole course of development must be repeated in each generation.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

From Our Readers.

REGARDING HOME OWNING.

Editor Star—Why are not more people interested in owning a home? First because the rate of interest is too high. Ever since the building and loans have charged seven per cent. for money, buying homes has decreased in number. Building and loans should pay five per cent. on deposits and loan for six per cent. A state law should be passed to tax the money in the building and loans one-half of one per cent. and the loans should pay this tax. This would leave one-half of one per cent. for the loans to do business on. The tax of one-half of one per cent would bring millions of dollars in taxes in Ohio, which now we loose. The people would rather take five per cent. for their money, interest paid semi-annually than to invest in any other security because they could get their money any time they wanted it and one hundred cents on the dollar. Secondly the taxes on houses are exorbitant. Taxes should be reduced one-third and in some assessments one-half. Until these two things are removed you can not interest people in owning a home.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York March 8 — Newspaper writers who achieve what is known in the trade as a "by line"—you know, the signed piffle—are targets for many creepy communications. Every syndicated writer has a group of correspondents who bombard him with letters.

It is called "nut mail" and, of course, does not include the epistolary cheer that is always welcome, the queries or even those who underline the columnar "I" in red pencil and make a neat little notation to take a broad running jump off a dock.

"Nut mail" is rarely amusing, for it usually comes from those with disordered minds. They babble of fancied grievances and are jumpy and incoherent. Some have a panacea for the ills of the world and others are being held in imaginary bondage.

They tell of inventions of which they have been defrauded or of enemies who lie in wait. For more than five years I have received from one to two missives a week written in a distinguished feminine hand and postmarked from a large Ohio city. They address me as "Buddy."

Although not one has been answered, they speak from time to time of my replies and now and then of telegrams and gifts—imagine?—from me. A correspondent in Nome Alaska, sent me a post card daily for more than four months. They were rational and friendly, but never signed.

Bide Dudley for several years received letters from a lady in a nearby New York town. When at last they became threatening he turned them over to postal authorities. The lady was hiding, investigation developed, a progressive paranoia from even members of her family.

Another columnist has for several years received on the first day of each month a brand new one dollar bill. It is folded in a plain sheet of paper in an equally plain envelope and addressed on a typewriter. It has never been mailed from the same post office station twice.

Capsule novel: They were talking of one of Broadway's good fellows. "He will," said an admirer, "give you the shirt off his back."

And a mean cynic added: "But he wouldn't pay some poor old woman for washing it."

As the owner of a dog who puts his paw into the handle of a drawer, pulls it open and takes out a rubber ball, I can easily believe a gentleman who writes from Philadelphia that his dog, after an auto ride, rushes up to the front porch and pulls down a switch that turns on the electric lights.

* * *

A wire-haired fox terrier living in a hotel a few blocks away, without being told, takes the elevator down to the office newsstand every morning at 9 o'clock and returns with his master's morning paper in his mouth. He never varies more than five minutes timing his departure.

* * *

Recounting these dog didoes was inspired by a cabled interview with one of those tall-domed Viennese scientists who is blabbing again that dogs have no reasoning power whatever.

Gene Markey burst in from Hollywood the other day like a skyrocket for a week's stay in the metropolis. A friend, departing for Europe, turned over his five-room apartment at the Ritz. Another friend, Florida bound put his Rolls at the writer's disposal, and he saw six shows as the guest of the management. It is things like that that causes many straight forward young men who might amount to something to turn to writing as a career.

It has just occurred to me that no actor has ever been able to hand his hat and cane to a butler with the superb indifference of the late John Drew. Nor do I think any fiction character is so well named as Octavus Roy Cohen's Florian Slappey.

An Unfortunate Tribute.

In his write up of a home-talent play an Oklahoma editor commended a neighbor for his "clever impersonation of a gentleman."—Florence Herald.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Probably fifty per cent. of our worry is concerned with things that are over and done with. We worry about actions, failures, mistakes, errors, oversights that happened yesterday. Ordinary common sense tells us, or should tell us, that it is too late now to correct yesterday's mistakes or change yesterday's procedure. Very likely we acted yesterday in accordance with the best judgment of which we were capable at the time; we acted in the best light that we had. Today we see things differently. Unfortunately it is too late to apply today's judgment to yesterday's problem. It is too late to turn today's light on opportunity or action that is past and gone.

The healthy, calm, serene mind checks off yesterday when today has come. Today one can undertake a new policy, go forward on a new basis, begin the building of a new road. And perhaps, after all, what you did yesterday, under the circumstances, was best.

* * *

And strange how much tiresome attention we give to matters that are really of trifling importance. Is not one reminded of the wise Frenchman, La Rochefoucauld, who said: "The calm or agitation of our temper does not depend so much on the important events of life as on an agreeable or disagreeable adjustment of little things that happen every day."

* * *

It is faint praise to say a man is good hearted, or to say, at his funeral, that he was good-hearted. This same La Rochefoucauld once sagely remarked that "nothing is so rare as real goodness of heart. Even those who fancy they are possessed of it have in general only complaisance or weakness of character."

That sounds cruel, but perhaps it is cruelly true. Check up on your friends. Better than that, check up on yourself. Many of us think we are kind and tolerant when the real fact is we are without convictions. We do not care. Thus we agree with anybody and are willing to believe anything. Before you boast of your generosity and tolerance be sure you are tolerant about something that you really care about.

* * *

What is truth? asked Pilate. And, Bacon said, Pilate would not wait for an answer. Pilate did not care much for truth. He wanted to get through with an unpleasant, inconvenient job. So with most of us. We pretend we are interested in truth. We read books and even seem to seek for it. Mostly what we want is to be let alone in our most comfortable beliefs. Men hate to give up what they have fondly thought was truth just as they hate to have the furniture moved in the living-room. Real truth may be jarring, hurtful, wounding. It may keep you awake. And yet, in the acceptance of truth is the one real victory of the mind and soul.

DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Charles Morey Claimed at Daytona Beach

MARYSVILLE, March 8 — Mrs. Charles Morey of this city died suddenly Friday at Daytona Beach, Fla., following an attack of acute indigestion, according to word received by her daughter, Mrs. Paris Outland, today.

Mr. and Mrs. Morey left Dec. 1 for Florida where they planned to spend the winter.

The body will be returned here for burial.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Charges Here; Fined $50

Edward Younkins, 21, Ballentine av. and Fairground st., was fined $50 and costs in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

He has been unable to pay the fine.

He was arrested by police officers after he is said to have thrown a stone, or part of a brick through the window of a filling station on Farming st. yesterday afternoon.

HIGH COURT JURIST AT 89TH MILESTONE

Oliver Wendell Holmes Only Slightly Handicaped by Weight of Years

President Roosevelt, confirmed by the senate on Dec. 4, 1902 and took his seat on Dec. 8.

Even before he took the oath, Justice Holmes was known to the legal profession as a master of jurisprudence and his work, "The Common Law" published in 1881, is still regarded as a 'classic.' The principles he laid down there have been consistently followed by him on the bench. Known for his dissenting opinions in opposition to the views of his more conservative colleagues, his masterly setting forth of his conclusions have earned for him the title "the great liberal."

Famous Author's Son

Son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, known to every schoolboy as the author of "The One Hoss Shay," and "Old Ironsides," Justice Holmes is the oldest man ever to serve on the supreme bench but his energy and clarity of mind do not suffer in comparison to any member of the country's highest tribunal. He is the only member of the court who keeps careful notes on every development on court proceedings, whether it is argument of counsel or references to authorities cited.

Justice Holmes today had recovered from a slight cold he had a few months ago and his good health shows signs of continuing indefinitely. One of his few concessions to the years is that he does not leave his home at night. He still, however, is a familiar figure at social functions in the daytime and his wit has been compared favorably to that of his distinguished father.

HOOVER SEES SIGNS OF BUSINESS RISE

Worst Effects of Stock Market Crash Near End, President Says

terest rates prevailing, and increased expansion expenditures by railroads and utilities, the advance of spring will witness a return to normal prosperity.

An important and beneficial influence upon the situation, he continued, has been the "nation-wide response to the request for increased construction by public authorities, railroads, utilities and industries."

Urges Cooperation

"It would assist greatly during this period if every business concern and every householder able to do so would survey their situation as to repairs, cleanups, and betterments that must be undertaken sooner or later, and have them put in hand now with view to relieving the immediate distress in their localities," the president said.

In an analysis of credit conditions, Mr. Hoover said that money rates have decreased steadily since December with the result that an increasing number of bond issues have been placed for the purpose of making public improvements.

Recovery Under Way

Secretary Lamont and Secretary Davis, in their joint statement asserted that the forces of recovery were steadily gaining strength. Although not fixing the extent of unemployment in specific figures, they estimated it at between one-third and one-half of that which existed during the depression of 1921 and 1922.

A sub-committee of the senate commerce committee will open hearings on Tuesday or Wednesday for the purpose of formulating legislation for enactment at this congress to help in remedying the situation and to stabilize labor conditions for the future.

SHOW SHOPPING

Next Week's Attractions. Theater News and Gossip

BY HALLIE HOUCK

THIS week, the first full week of the Lenten season, brings several rousing good pictures as well as a tab show to town, and also the announcement of a new theater manager.

"Hit the Deck," at the Palace

WHO doesn't love gobs? Not gobs of ice cream or licorice candy, but gobs of the U. S. navy.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday Jack Oakie and Polly Moran, and a cast of 1,000 actors and actresses and extras, sail into the Palace with "Hit the Deck," one of the real "hits" of the show year. Here's a Broadway show brought to the screen with nothing lost and a great deal gained in the opportunity which the screen gives for more elaborate settings and larger casts.

One of the big things about this rollicking show is the song hits. "Keepin' Myself Just for You," "Harbor of My Heart," and "Smith", are new songs that the show brings. "Hallelujah," "Sometimes I'm Happy," and "Nothing Could Be Sweeter," and many others, are also big moments in the evening's entertainment.

There are technicolor scenes in this show that also have a very nice little story woven through them.

"Bilge Smith," just off the boat from a round-the-world cruise meets "Looloo" in "Looloo's Coffee Shop," and falls for her. Jack Oakie and Polly Walker and "Bilge" and "Looloo." A party on board the flagship of the fleet, for the Smiths in the navy, is the gala scene of the show, "Looloo" is hostess. In good talkie language "Bilge" tells this flaming gal that he loves her, and immediately refuses to marry her when he learns she's wealthy.

JACK OAKIE

Jack and Polly are supported by a cast including 1,000 dancers, singers and entertainers.

"Roadhouse Nights," Comedy Thriller

REVIEWERS are giving "Roadhouse Nights," coming to the Palace Sunday and Monday, bighearted applause. Although Helen Morgan, singer of the New York night clubs, is in the cast, the real hits are scored by two men, Charles Ruggles, a reporter with a penchant for getting "tight" and Jimmy Durante, a rum king.

This play has been reviewed as a "punchful melange of melodrama and button-busting comedy. How could it help but be a success with Hobart Henley, director of "The Lady Lies," at the megaphone a cast that's a gem-box and a slick little story.

FRED KOHLER

Here's the way the story goes:

Ruggles is sent out to get a story on Fred Kohler, a bootlegging potentate, following the failure of another reporter, who gets too tight to send in copy.

Ruggles finds that the Kohler gang holds forth at a roadhouse where Helen Morgan is an entertainer. Helen and Ruggles discover that they were sweethearts back in the days when neither had an idea of being an entertainer or a "tight" reporter. She tries to persuade him to leave town before the rum boys get him, but as usual with movie plots, she fails and he stays at the roadhouse to complete a story that's comedy all the way through.

Bill Boyd at Marion

A STORY of military life, its romance and its thrills, comes to Marion Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with William Boyd in "His First Command." Dorothy Sebastian plays opposite the likeable Bill.

Boyd has a very pleasing talkie personality, and there are some spectacular parade-ground shots that are the best moments in the picture.

Grand Theater Changes Management

AFTER tonight, when the Myrtyl Ross Players pack their props and baggage and vacate the theater, the Grand will be under the management of Charles Grace. Grace is a local man who had experience at the Marion theater, and played minor roles with the Ross Players during their 49 weeks here.

Ross Players in Bucyrus for Week

EIGHTEEN miles from Marion, the Myrtyl Ross Players will fill their time until March 17, when they open in Ann Arbor, Mich., with entertaining the people of Bucyrus. Which should be good news for that town. And Bucyrus is only a short distance to cover if Marion fans want to see their favorites before Michigan claims them.

Sunday and Monday they will do "Won By Waiting." Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fighting Parson," and Friday and Saturday, "Meet the Wife." Saturday night they will again pull stakes, and open Sunday in Ann Arbor.

"Hauks' Revue" Opening Sunday

LOOPS, my dear, we have what is advertised as an "Aeroplane Show at Submarine Prices," at the Grand theater, opening Sunday. Patrons of the Grand last year will remember Arthur Hauks and his "Sunshine Revue." This is the show that last year drew one of Marion's less prosperous traveling evangelists to a seat in the center section of the first row at a midnight show.

Pictures will be shown on the Grand bill.

Closing Tonight

TONIGHT will be the last times to see that thriller of a mystery play, "The Bishop Murder Case," at the Palace, and "Three Live Ghosts," an all-talking picture, at the Marion.

GOVERNOR PLACES DONITHEN ON BODY

Local Attorney To Represent Building and Loan Companies on Committee

Attorney Hoke Donithen, a director of the People's Building, Savings & Loan Co., has just been notified of his appointment by Governor Cooper as building and loan representative on the governor's employment committee for Marion county, it was announced from Columbus today.

Business organizations throughout the state are, at the instance of Cooper, making an effort to enroll for active duty every available agency having any bearing on Ohio's prosperity.

Building and loan associations have been urged to mobilize dormant and idle money, through attracting additional savings, to be used solely for the purpose of stimulating industrial activities and revitalizing business in general.

Marion county building and loan associations have total resources of $11,606,596, most of which has been loaned for home buying and building, according to the dispatch from Columbus.

WEEK'S FORECAST

Unsettled Weather Near Lakes, Generally Fair in Ohio Valley

Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday:

For the region of the Great Lakes: Probably much unsettled weather, with rather frequent precipitation; temperatures mostly near or above normal.

Ohio Valley and Tennessee: Generally fair weather except a period of showers the middle of the week. Rising temperature Monday and Tuesday, becoming considerably above normal, followed by colder latter part of the week.

GLOSSER TO ATTEND BOY SCOUT DINNER

Harding Area Council Head To Leave Tonight for Washington

Marion scouts and Harding Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be represented at the anniversary banquet of that organization in Washington, D. C., next Monday night by Frank D. Glosser, president of the Harding Area council.

Mr. Glosser, accompanied by Mrs. Glosser, will leave Marion tonight to attend the twentieth anniversary dinner of scouting at the Willard Hotel.

President Herbert Hoover, several other prominent officials, and Walter W. Head, president of the Foreman-State National bank of Chicago, and former president of the American Bankers association, will give addresses at the meeting. Mr. Head has been president of the Boy Scouts of America since 1926. The U. S. Marine band is scheduled to furnish music for the banquet.

The addresses to follow the dinner will be broadcast through cooperation of the National and Columbia broadcasting systems, and many scout groups throughout the country are expected to listen to the president's talk.

200 HEAR PROGRAM

Relation of Parents and Teachers Discussed at Meeting

There was an attendance of approximately 200 at the Founders' Day program of the Parent-Teachers association last night at Central Junior High school.

The first part of the program, which included five talks by prominent Marion people, was on the parent, and the second half, which included six talks, was on the teacher. These two sides of the parent-teacher, were linked together in a talk by Supt. George A. Bowman, on "Cooperation of Parents and Teacher."

Preceding the program, music was furnished by the high school glee clubs, mixed chorus and solo numbers, under the direction of T. R. Evans.

TRAP SHOOTERS TO CHOOSE MEET SITE

Will Meet Tonight in Eymon Office; Several Locations Considered

Active members of the Marion Gun Club are expected to meet tonight in the offices of J. H. Eymon, local attorney and official of the club, to consider possible sites for the trap shooting grounds for the club this year.

The club decided to pick grounds for the location of traps after the Marion county fairgrounds, which had been considered as a likely site for the 1930 shoots, was found to be unsuitable.

Officials of the club say several sites will be considered, among them the Alline farm on the Hillman-Ford rd., just outside the northwest corporation line of the city.

PASTOR ON PROGRAM OF LUNCHEON CLUB

Dr. Sunberg To Address Rotary Club; Kiwanians To Hear Music

Dr. Carl A. Sunberg, pastor of one of Springfield's largest churches, will be the speaker at the Tuesday luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding, the program committee announced today. "Quality and Quantity" is the subject of this talk.

A novelty musical program has been promised as entertainment for Kiwanians when they meet in the weekly luncheon of the club at the Marion Club Thursday noon.

GUESTS AT MEET

Arrangements Completed By Society For Bake Sale

CALEDONIA, March 8 — Mrs. Delphos Hill, Mabel Geneva Hill and Lowell Charles Doyle were guests at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the Universalist church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lee Osborne. Fourteen members responded to roll call. Rev. Elmer M. Druley conducted the devotionals and Mrs. A. E. Monnette had charge of the business session.

Final arrangements were made for a bake sale to be held in the council room Saturday March 8. It was voted to give a chicken supper in the church dining room April 18.

Plans were completed for serving meals at the State convention to be held in June. It was decided to serve all meals in the school auditorium. Little Miss Mabel Geneva Hill contributed several recitations and songs.

* * *

Mrs. Helen Iden entertained the In His Name class of the Church of Christ Sunday school at her home south Water st., Thursday night. There were twelve members present and Mr. and Mrs. John Pommert and Delmore Iden were guests.

* * *

The Rev. William Bowman, of Marion will preach at the Mission hall, over C. G. Underwood's store, Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

* * *

A good attendance was present at the meeting of the Deborah Rebekah lodge Wednesday night. Plans were made for a St. Patrick social to be held at the close of the next meeting March 19.

* * *

Andrew Foos suffered a paralytic stroke Wednesday morning, which affected the left side of his body.

PAST OFFICERS IN CHAIRS AT MEETING

Lime City Council, Junior Order, Holds Annual Meeting at Hall

Past councillors of Lime City Council No. 201, Junior Order United American Mechanics were in complete charge of their annual meeting last night in Junior Order hall. All offices of the evening were filled by past councillors of the order.

E. G. Johnson presided as councillor. Other presiding officers were W. F. Corder, vice councillor; H. B. Prior, recording secretary; M. L. Severns, assistant; J. Bausman, financial secretary; G. F. Griffith, treasurer; E. G. Pace, conductor; Virgil Altenberger, warden; N. J. Keeler, inside sentinel; Walter Severns, outside sentinel; M. Severns, T. J. Refreshments were served by a committee.

AT CONVENTION

Marion Men Attend Fraternity Meeting at Columbus

E. G. Siefert, Floyd Brown, Newell Minard and Steve Parcher, of this city, were among Marion men in Columbus today attending a convention of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

Delegates from chapters of 13 universities in Ohio, Michigan and Indiana attended the convention. The convention opened yesterday afternoon, and will close tonight. Gov. Myers Y. Cooper addressed the group at the opening session yesterday. A Founder's Day banquet and smoker were given last night, and the program today includes a business session and theater party.

TO CONFER DEGREE

Marion Lodge, No. 402, K. of P., Go to Green Camp

Plans were made to go to Green Camp Thursday night where members of the degree team will confer the rank of page on a class of candidates, at the meeting of members of Marion lodge, No. 402, Knights of Pythias, last night. The team also will confer the page of rank on a class of candidates at Toledo, March 29.

M. L. Wilson, T. S. Cathers and Wallace Linn were named a committee to meet with a committee from Canby lodge, No. 51, to arrange for a joint memorial service in the near future. Carroll W. Davidson, Fred Gast and Lewis Hubley were named a committee to arrange for the placement of a lodge team in the Y. M. C. A. soft ball league this season.

Juvenile Judge Acts To Safeguard Children

Children were warned today by Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast not to skate in city streets, as the result of three boys being brought before him yesterday for using smooth-surfaced streets as their skating rink.

"I have no objection to children skating on sidewalks, but for their own safety they must not go out into the streets." Gast said.

Church, Social Groups Observe Lenten Season

WITH the Lenten season opening this week church groups and a number of social clubs are including in their meeting programs some work of benevolence. City and county institutions will benefit through various religious organizations, where members plan regular sewing meetings for the six weeks, while other groups have outlined a program of charitable work for lodge and children's homes. A number of societies, whose members will meet weekly during the Lenten period, will spend the time sewing in preparation for bazaar, to be held at the close of Lent, the proceeds of which will be used for church activities.

Just Things

Suits

THE much-mooted question of "to bob or not to bob" one's hair has been relegated to the background for those who are contemplating greeting the gladsome spring-time garbed in a suit. The thought is appalling when one pauses to take note of being seen in a waist line. Those who sell 'em insist that those who wear 'em, must have 'em. Surely those masterpieces of tucks and yokes must rustle with "I told-you-so" satisfaction from their hiding places in the attic, at the idea. If you haven't done so, drop into the ready-to-wear department of your favorite store and try on a suit. The salesgirl won't mind. One has something of an old-fashioned feeling of being caught without their back hair, in girding the skirt mid-riff of their anatomy, and it is the wise salesgirl who dishes out a few encouraging sentences enroute to the mirror before which one is wont to parade. The coat, of course, eases the blow, but there is plenty of kick left. It won't be half bad after we get used to it and by next year we may be proclaiming to the world we actually have a waist line, via the pully and spike belt route.

* * *

Were You There?

Did you, like dozens of others, attend the presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," this week, just to see if it really was as thrilling as you believed it was, not so many years ago? To be sure it was modernized somewhat, but Little Eva actually went to heaven and Uncle Tom did get lashed to within an inch of his life. And lots of folks cried, too.

Borrowing

BORROWING a cup of sugar to finish out the cake, or a hunk of butter to save the day when unexpected company arrives, but to borrow a neighbor's dog to raise an orphaned family of puppies is rather a new wrinkle in the borrowing line. When the mother of a thoroughbred family of dogs, lost her life in an automobile accident, recently, the little family was bundled up and taken to the home of a neighbor, whose dog had just completed the task of teaching her own family the essentials of good manners in the canine blue book, where they were immediately adopted by the big-hearted mother.

Lecture-Recital Club To Present Guest Program

Mrs. J. Roy McHenry, Youngstown, and Mrs. Maude Machentanz and Miss Frances Harbison, Kenton, will be presented as out-of-town artists when members of the Marion Lecture-Recital club meet Monday night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding.

The program, which is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock, will open with "Hungarian Dance," Brahms and "Dornroeschen," Tschaikowsky, arranged for two pianos, played by Mrs. Maude Machentanz and Miss Frances Harbison. Another guest artist, T. R. Evans, the city, will be heard in two violin numbers, "Romance," from Wieniawski's Second Concerto for violin, and "Meditation" from "Thais," by Massenet. Mr. Evans' accompaniments will be played by Miss Melvina Summers.

Mrs. McHenry has chosen for her selections a French group including "Manon's Farewell," from Manon Act 2, by Massenet; "Maiden So Fair," from Ariodent, 1798, and "Les Guelfes," from "Cantaline." Her accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser.

Quartet To Sing

Members of the Cauto club quartet, E. L. Howe, Paul M. By F est Hill and W. E. Orcutt will sing a group of three numbers, "O G[illegible] Robe," Huntley, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," Seitz, and "'Tis Me," Burleigh, accompanied at the piano by Cecil Gabler, and Mrs. Edith Kanzer Unger, Bucyrus, a member of the club, will sing the aria, "Farewell, Ye Hills," from Jeanne d'Arc. Mrs. Unger's accompaniment will be played by Mrs. Mouser.

Mrs. McHenry will sing for her second group two Russian numbers, "Song of the Shepherd Le," Rimsky-Korsakow, and "Song of India," by the same composer. The program will close with a duet from "Pique Dame," Tschaikowsky, sung by Mrs. Unger and Mrs. McHenry, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mouser.

True Blue Class of Reformed Church Meets

Mrs. H. D. Doan and Miss Betty June Cook were guests at the meeting of members of the True Blue class, of the First Reformed Sunday school last night at the home of Misses Mary and Martha Howison, Forest st. During a short business session plans were made for a penny supper at the church, March 27. A social hour and contests were enjoyed, contest honors going to Mrs. Sheldon Lester and Mrs. Ralph Cook. The next meeting will be held April 4 with Mrs. Sheldon Lester, Edgewood dr.

"Custom Built"

A STORY OF LOVE AND LIFE IN HOLLYWOOD

He Talked, but He Could Deliver

BY SIDNEY HERSCHEL SMALL

CHAPTER 24

JOHN ANDREW called, "Come in," very cheerfully when knocks sounded at the door; one of the hotel's assistants brought the two suits which Kellogg had sent to be pressed. John Andrew found a quarter and reached for the charge tag accompanying the garments, pen in hand.

"I'm sorry, sir, but . . . you see, my orders are——"

"You want cash money?" asked John Andrew.

"My instructions, sir . . ."

"Do you keep the moths away from your guests' clothing?"

The man stared at the suits over his arm. "Where do you see moth holes, sir? I am unable to observe any, but——"

"Then keep 'em away from mine," said John Andrew. "I'm very fond of that gray suit . . . and bring 'em back in the morning, eh? Take along the quarter"—as the man laid it silently on the desk—" you can't help it."

"Perhaps, sir, under the circumstances——"

"Get along," said John Andrew cheerfully. "Buy yourself a corner lot with it."

The telephone rang, and John Andrew let it ring several times before he went between the twin beds and took the instrument from its little stand.

His face cleared at once: "I thought you weren't to talk to me until Sunday," he said. "Get you at 4? What time is it now? Almost 3? Why . . . why, yes, I don't see why not, although I've got a little—er—business to transact before I come for you. Will I? O, you don't feel so afraid to have me buy you dinner now that I've closed a deal with Consolidated? Who told you about it?"

He listened while Anne explained how things went swiftly from mouth to mouth; next he said, "If I'm a little late getting there"—remembering the "business" which would be absolutely needful before he could pay for any dinner at all—"if I'm a bit late, Anne, you just read the funny strips like a nice girl . . . what?"

Mr. Chester, Anne told him, seemed to think that he was to take his leading lady for a ride somewhere down the coast, and for dinner: "He doesn't listen to me when I tell him I can't—I won't—go," Anne said, in nervous tones which made Kellogg's lips tighten. "He just says, 'I'll be waiting for you when you're dressed—try and get away from me, sweet thing'—"

"I'll sweet thing him," John Andrew snorted. "I'll bust him up small enough to be lemon drops . . . don't worry, Anne; papa will be there waitin' for you."

"Thanks, John Andrew . . . and I'm so glad about your camera. Now everything is all right, isn't it?"

John Andrew, inaudibly sighed. "Couldn't be better," he said.

When John Andrew hung up the receiver, he went to the two piles he had been arranging, and shoved them together. Next he looked out of the window, and for a moment considered tearing the sheets of a bed apart and lowering his bag to the lawn far below, retrieving it when he had run the gauntlet of the hotel servants and—he was beginning to believe—spies. Dinner, he realized, meant an additional $10 . . . or more.

John Andrew did his arithmetic again. Two days—three, if the bookkeeper would count in the coming night—at $10? $7? $12 a day: that made $33. Telegrams: say a couple of dollars more: $40. Food: $5 or so. A total of $45. He needed $15 or $30 more for Anne's evening. Say, $60. On the basis of the money loaned him for the watch, he needed about $300 worth of merchandise to get $60.

And, he remembered, watches brought a better price than clothing or bags . . . The only things which might have any value were the silver brushes; they should bring $10 or $12, surely . . .

"Come in," John Andrew called again, less cheerfully than before.

A boy in bright livery held a telegram out to John Andrew; Kellogg put another quarter (leaving $1.30 in his pocket on the little round tray.

He tore open the yellow envelope, and, very swiftly, read:

"SEND WILLIAM BLAKE TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS ALREADY DEMANDED PLUS THREE HUNDRED MORE ADDITIONAL EQUIPMENT STOP UNLESS MONEY HERE BY NOON SATURDAY BLAKE WILL CONSIDER YOU HAVE FAILED ADHERING TERMS OF WRITTEN TEN AGREEMENT AND SAME WILL NO LONGER BE BINDNG OR LEGAL.

HARTSHORNE, CANFIELD AND COHN."

Hartshorne's probably dead," John Andrew muttered: "Canfield's only a game, but this fellow Cohn doesn't seem like a very pleasant individual thus far."

John Andrew read the message a second time, and took no more comfort from it. "Right," said John Andrew, "between the eyes."

Well enough to say, but not so easy to do. Go? Go where? John Andrew looked at the heap of clothing beside the ornate bag, at the scintillations made by the silver brushes. Not by any stretch of even his excellent imagination could they be sold for $500. Hang it, a fellow was just able to figure one problem out, and then another immediately confronted him, more difficult than the first. A fortune, and Anne, just around the corner, why was it necessary to have so much useless, senseless, grief now? John Andrew was honestly wretched; not until he made himself think ahead was he able to work himself into a more normal state of mind.

The situation was, exactly, this:

He had two days in which to raise $500.

He had two hours in which to meet his hotel bill.

He must—and must was the exact word—meet Anne—with enough to pay for dinner—in, now, less than a half-hour.

"Time certainly moves fast," muttered John Andrew.

Working backward, he was going to be at the Consolidated entrance at 4. That much was settled, even if he bought Anne crackers and milk for her dinner. Next, as to the hotel bill: he could drive around all night, or find a place to sleep, and come back to the hotel in the morning to pay the bill. And lastly, the custom built Mercury had to be sold.

Even John Andrew knew that automobiles could not be pawned; what he did not know was that he might have borrowed money on it. Therefor, despite the obvious loss which he must bear, the jade-green roadster must be disposed of. What matter? "I'll buy a couple of 'em Saturday afternoon," John Andrew said aloud.

Even while he was making this extravagant statement, John Andrew stooped and slipped two silver brushes and a silver comb into his coat pocket. Anne must be well and daintly fed.

On his way out John Andrew stopped at the manager's office. He explained nothing, saying only, "I'm going to be too busy this afternoon to get your money for you. My bags and stuff are in my room; you can take 'em, or throw 'em after me, but I'm not going to pay the bill until tomorrow."

The manager looked up; his face became stern, and, even while be gathered his storm clouds about him, to be broken about the guest's head, he said, "That will be quite satisfactory to us, sir."

"And," said John Andrew, recreasing his hat expertly, "I wish you'd tell the girl who takes off the counterpane and lights the bedside lamp at night not to move the cigarets from the table next to the bed over to the chiffonier ... I need 'em the first thing in the morning . . ."

This guest, the manager decided, was either a thoroughgoing and complete scamp and swindler, or . . . er . . .

For a moment John Andrew's fate, as a resident at the Poinsettia, hung in the balance; then the manager said, smiling, "I'm that way myself I'll have the girl spoken to."

"Thanks," said John Andrew. "Spoils the whole day when you've got to climb out for your first smoke . . ."

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

Anxiety To Reach the Savarin Home Prevents a Stop for Lunch

"YOU'D pass the binet tests with flying colors, Uncle Harry," Mary said with a giggle when Mr. Undwerwood told her that the question she wished to ask was "When do we eat?" "That's just exactly what I want to know. I can feel myself dropping pounds every minute, and you know the boyish 'figger' is out now.

"You can open the tin lunch boxes and fish out the sandwiches any minute you like," he told her. "But remember, the biggest red apple goes to Teacher, now in the driver's seat, and you will cut it into small pieces for him so that he may take bites as he drives with one hand."

"Why mention that last fact?" Mary shot back saucily. "I never saw you use two, and I'm perfectly sure you could drive with your ear or your left big toe if necessary."

"Thanks for the dandelion greens, little Mary," he told her, "but please expend the well-known energy in unpacking the eats instead of generating heated air. We need the one and the motor is furnishing the other."

"Apparently there are other empty 'little Mary's' in the car," Dicky's niece gibed. "But just watch the original if you want to see service. I'm considering an offer from the Pullman diners right now."

I heard the clink of silver and in another minute Mary touched me on the shoulder.

"Please take this, Auntie Madge," she said, and turned to see her holding out a cup of hot soup from the container concerning which Katie had given us such voluble directions. "You can feed it to the driver, spoonful at a time, if he wants it that way But if he desires to 'quaff it down,' you'd better stir it vigorously for a second or two. Otherwise he won't be able to talk for a week and we'd all die of ennui."

"When this journey's ended you'd better make tracks for the nearest woods, young woman," Mr. Underwood advised. "Otherwise you're going to get one of the paddlings which must have been absent from your youthful education. Of all the impudent minxes! How about the soup. Lady Fair?—is it cool enough?"

A Strategic Stop

"It will be in another second or two," I answered, stirring the steaming mixture vigorously. Then both stirring and speech ceased abruptly as we heard Lillian's voice raised in protest.

"No, Mary, please don't ask me. I couldn't taste anything."

Lillian's husband slowed down the car, not abruptly—he is too good a driver for that—but thoroughly, steered it to the side of the road, stopped, but left the motor running, and turned around to face his wife.

"I'm so sorry," he said. "I might have known you couldn't eat or drink with the car moving. We'll just stay here until we've had a bite. Please hand me my soup, Lady Fair. You'll have it churned into butter if you stir it much more."

He turned back to me and I handed him the cup with a mental salute to the adroitness of his attack. He had issued no ultimatum calculated to rouse his wife's spirit or obstinacy, but underneath the velvet glove of his apparently courteous action and words there was the unspoken dictum: "We do not continue our journey until you have eaten something."

'Phone the Catskills!

"Harry!" Lillian's voice was sharper than I ever had heard it. "You know it isn't the movement of the car. I could manage an eight-course dinner on a racing-car if I had to. I'm simply not a bit hungry. But if you'll go on at once, I'll take a cup of soup, another of coffee, one roll and a bit of the chicken. Will you let me off the rest?"

Her husband handed his his empty cup back to me, threw the car into first and went back to the road.

"That depends, old dear," he said, "upon what you mean by a 'bit of the chicken.' If it's under five hundred—what dy'e call 'em—calories? I may have to stop again."

"I'll do the measuring for you, Mr. Underwood," Mary promised, with a laugh. "Here, Auntie Madge, is your soup. The fish course will follow immediately, but you mustn't hurry the butler."

"I haven't any intention of doing anything s' are hang a medal around the butler's neck," I told her, and indeed she proved her natural efficiency most royally in the minutes following as she served the appetizing viands Katie had provided in a fashion most convenient for our eating. But when we had finished and she was repacking the baskets with the comment that we had enough left for a Christmas dinner, I realized that Mary and I were the only ones who had done any justice to Katie's lunch. Lillian had eaten what she had promised, but no morsel more, and while her big husband had made a bombastic pretense of enthusiastic eating, he had deftly thrown out of the window most of the food Mary had prepared for him—an action which I knew was not suspected by either of the occupants of the rear seat but which I could no help seeing.

It was twilight by the time Mary had packed up the lunch again, and when we stopped for gas, forty miles below Kingston, the pitch darkness of the Winter night was enveloping us.

"Better telephone those people where you were planning to stay all night, Lady Fair," Mr. Underwood advised in a manner that was the epitome of casualness. But I thought I detected a note in his voice akin to the little, quickly stifled exclamation which Lillian had given upon hearing his proposal, and knew that in both their minds was the query whirling through mine:

What news of Robert Savarin would be ours as the result of that telephone call?

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

SATURDAY. I was thinking about Feeble again when me and Jubilee woke up this morning, but I wasn't feeling bad about her any more, but I would of been if she hadn't given me that sidewinder by the side of the head. A girl can't hit very hard, and anyhow I guess I had it coming to me. Anyhow we are even now. I let Jubilee down and carried out my ashes and did everything I had to do till breakfast, and the bunch came and was standing around planning to go places and do things while I was feeding my face. Then I went out and started in to cleaning the barn and they told me if I was going to spend the whole morning being a chambermaid for a couple of cows they were going to go without me. I told them to go ahead. There was not any place to go or anything to do this time of year. It aint warm enough to go swimming or cold enough to go sliding or skating and it is too chillish to set on a bank fishing, and if I didn't clean out the stable on Saturday my father would wallop me to a frazze, so I told them to chase themselves. I was working away and whistling and I turned around and there was Youniss setting up on the feed box looking at me, I leaned on my shovel and looked at her, and a fella has only to look at Youniss to forget there ever was a Feeble. She looked at me kinda funny and said, "Thomas Aristides who is the sweetest girl in the world?" I said, "Your mother's little girl." So then we both laughed, and she told me to help her down and just as I reached for her hands something cold and wet hit me in the back of the neck and splashed all over the place. I scraped enough of it off my neck to see that it was a froze and rotted turnip that someone had threw through the manure hole from the alley, but by the time I got there there was not anyone in sight, and I had to go in the house and wash up. When me and Youniss went out again the whole bunch was in the yard and they were all grinning, so I knowed they know who done it, but I wouldn't ast anyone to squeal on the others, but someone is going to have to eat dirt. I caught the Lost Bag of Tripe with his arms around Nibs' neck asting him who was the sweetest little girl in the world, and Nibs said, "Your mamma's little girl, sugar face." Then he hollered, "Don't you dast to kiss me, you brute!" and he put his foot behind the Lost Bag of Tripe and gave him a push that sot him down in the mud. I pretended not to notice, but I know two fellas that are trying to get scabs on their noses. Feeble and Maggie came just then and my mother told them they might make some candy, so we all had a good time the rest of the day. My mother can be nice to my friends when she wants to be, and all of them aren't easy to be nice to. I went to bed and pulled Jubilee up right after supper.
